

McDonald Road residents oppose housing development

By STEPHEN BJORK
WILMINGTON - The Planning Board was presented with conceptual plans for the conservation sub-division proposed for the end of McDonald Road. Residents in attendance reiterated their concerns over a housing development that would increase the size of the neighborhood by 50 percent. A Conservation Subdivision calls for the proponent to prove the maximum number of housing units that would be able to fit on the parcel under current zoning laws by drawing up a "Yield Plan" and then allows that specific number of units to be built at a higher density level on less land, thereby conserving the remainder of the parcel as open space.

In the case of McDonald Road, the 60-acre parcel, including uplands and wetlands, can sustain 30 house lots spread out throughout the site. A conservation subdivision on that parcel will still allow for as many as 30, but would concentrate building to roughly 20 acres, leaving the remaining 40 acres as open space.

The two conceptual plans

West School opens its doors

By LARZ F. NEILSON

The Town of Wilmington gave new life to the 130-year-old West School on Sunday. A dedication ceremony was held with about 100 persons present, including 16 people who had attended the school. The occasion marked the completion of renovations to the interior of the one-room schoolhouse.

The school was built in 1875 as one of five regional schools in town. Four of those remain standing today.

One of those four is the old Center School, which was for many years the Wilmington Public Library and is known today as the 4th of July Building. Foster Balser worked as a part-time custodian at the library. His wife Louise was the assistant librarian.

In his retirement, Balser sought to restore the West School as a historic exhibit. He wanted to get old school desks, blackboards, a potbellied stove and schoolroom lights to present the West as a schoolhouse of old.

He promoted the idea to the Wilmington Historical Commission and spoke to many people. He died without any visible changes to show for his effort.

The West School was like the Ugly Duckling. While everyone praised old one-room schoolhouses, it sat at the side of the road, its interior a shambles.

But Balser had planted a seed, and it took root. In 1990, the schoolhouse was named to the National Register of

Wilmington is cleaner this week

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington Conservation Commission extends a hardy thank-you to all the hard workers that showed up for the town's first annual Clean Up Day.

Volunteers assembled at the Whitefield School at around 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, September 24, 2005. They were greeted by Assistant Director of Planning and Conservation, Winifred McGowan and Assistant Planner, Michael Vivaldi who handed out gloves and trash bags supplied by the town. People were then broken into smaller groups and sent to the various parts of town that were earmarked for clean-up.

As many as 40 people showed up ready and willing to roll-up their sleeves for the cause.

Workers pulled a wide variety of trash from the streams and cleaned up all sorts of debris surrounding the wetlands. At least 50 large trash-bags were filled before day's end, along with the collection of 15 old tires, scrap metal, a propane tank, and discarded bicycles.

The diverse group of participants consisted of some well-known builders in the community as well as families, Conservation Commission members and two scout packs. Representing the Girl Scouts was

WILMINGTON - "I want to give back to the places that helped me when I needed assistance with Mark Daniel,"

Debby Richard said. "People tend to think of the movie Rainman when they think of autism. Unfortunately, not all autism is the same. It's not like that."

Debby Richard has started Me and My Friend Helping Autism, a charitable organization designed to raise money and awareness for a challenging disease. She and her family hope the fundraiser this Saturday night at the Wilmington Knights of Columbus will become an annual event.

Admissions Open House at St. John's Preparatory School

DANVERS - Students and families interested in learning more about St. John's Preparatory School are cordially invited to attend Admissions Open House on Sunday, October 23 with information sessions beginning at 10:00 a.m., 11:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon.

Founded in 1907, St. John's is a Catholic, Xaverian Brothers sponsored secondary school for young men in grades 9 through 12. With a century-long tradition of excellence in academics, arts, and athletics, St. John's is recognized for a rigorous college preparatory curriculum that emphasizes academic achievement, spiritual development, leadership and a commitment to Christian service. Located on a 175-acre campus in Danvers, Massachusetts, St. John's draws students from more than 60 communities.

Students and parents are asked to check in at Brother Benjamin Hall where applications and entrance exam information will be available. Informal refreshments will be served following the information sessions.

During Open House, families can meet with school administrators and faculty, learn about the academic program and extracurricular opportunities, and tour the 175-acre campus including the newly renovated Xavier Hall and the A. E. Studzinski Library and Technology Center. Faculty, coaches, parents, alumni, current students and representatives of the school's more than 50 clubs and extracurricular organizations also will be on hand to answer questions.

St. John's Preparatory School is located at 72 Spring Street, Danvers, Massachusetts. For more information, please call the Admissions Office at (978) 774-1050, ext. 301 or visit www.stjohnsprep.org.

It's Your Money by Joyce Brisbois

NEW: THE ROTH 401(K)

Yet another retirement savings option, the Roth 401(k) has some real pluses for workers in almost every tax bracket. Companies can offer these plans starting in January, 2006.

As in a regular Roth IRA, contributions are not tax-deductible, but withdrawals are tax-free if taken out after five years and after age 59 1/2. Young workers probably wouldn't save much on the deduction and have more time to compound earnings; older, richer ones will appreciate the tax-free aspect. And contribution limits are higher than for an ordinary Roth, as high as for a 401(k): up to $15,000, plus an extra $5,000 for those born before 1957. And there's no income limitation to this Roth.

Employer matches are not tax-favored; they go into a special account and are taxed as income when paid out. And yes, a Roth 401(k) is subject to minimum payout rules at 70 1/2, but might perhaps be rolled over into an ordinary Roth.

Questions about the new tax-saving retirement account? We have the answers at:

OPINION

From the Editor's Desk

By Stephen P. Bjork

Getting things done

Hats off to Sue Sinclair. Thanks to her tireless efforts, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has approved a second $50,000 grant to the citizen group, TOXIC (Townpeople Organized Against Illness and Contamination). This grant will facilitate the continued public involvement in the clean-up efforts of the Sutton Brook Disposal Area, more commonly known as Rocco's Landfill.

Rocco's Landfill was used as an open burning dump beginning in 1957. It was responsible for numerous violations of local and state regulations over the years. Despite authorization to accept municipal waste only, the landfill accepted industrial and chemical wastes. Rocco's was ordered closed in 1979, but continued to operate and accept wastes until 1986, and possibly later.

The Sutton Brook Disposal Area covers roughly 100 acres in Tewksbury and Wilmington, including Rocco's Landfill and a chemical-drum disposal area. Tewksbury and Wilmington residents have spent more than 13 years working towards the clean-up of the site.

Sinclair, a Wilmington resident, has led the charge as President of TOXIC for the last several years. Under her leadership, the community has seen the site listed on the EPA's National Priorities List, has seen 25 parties responsible for the contamination step up to the table and sign-on to pay their share of the remediation, and has recently seen a Draft Work Plan submitted for remediation of the site.

The site isn't clean yet - and it won't be for sometime - but that in and of itself is one of the reasons that committed activists like Sinclair are so special. It's maddening to realize that so many years have come and gone, and so little has seemingly been done. Many people that get involved tend to become frustrated by the endless bureaucracy and red-tape and eventually drop out of the process. That is one of the reasons why it is such a feat for TOXIC to have garnered a second grant - most activist groups tend to splinter before finishing off the initial grant.

Sinclair is especially unique in her ability to foster a good working relationship with the various environmental agencies, such as the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) and the EPA, while still holding their feet to the fire without mercy. She doesn't fall into the trap of yelling and screaming at public meetings. Instead, she puts her head down and gets to work. She knows that working with the people responsible will get far more accomplished than creating an adversarial relationship filled with open hostility. She's not looking for headlines; she's looking for an effective course of action.

That's not to say that she is not recognized within the environmental community. She was awarded an EPA Merit Award in 2001. She received an award from Toxics Action Center in 2004. She was invited to speak about her experiences at a national EPA conference in Albuquerque, New Mexico in 2003.

"I'm not doing anything special," Sinclair told the Town Crier in April of 2004. "I'm just doing what I feel needs to be done to feel safe where I live and for my children's safety and future."

Wilmington and Tewksbury are fortunate indeed to have such a committed and effective citizen working with local, state, and national officials toward a safer, healthier environment.

Letter to the editor

Straightening out the facts

Dear Editor,

The purpose of this letter is to set the record straight and to address statements made in "From the Editor's Desk, Opinion, What is Victory?" by Steve Bjork in the September 21, 2005 edition.

It is stated in this editorial that "In 2000 or 2001, Olin Chemical was negotiating to sell its property located at 51 Eames Street to a liquor distributor." This statement is almost true. Actually, the sale was to be to a warehousing company that would build the warehouse and then lease to the liquor distributor. However, where the major error occurs is the statement that "Activists vehemently opposed any development of the property until the entire site was cleared of contamination. So strong was the opposition, it was successful in driving the liquor distributor away." What the citizens vehemently opposed was a later proposal for a construction and demolition debris (C&D) processing facility to be run by Mass Environmental Associates (MEA). MEA was the company running the so called Maple Meadow Landfill closure project. In fact, a group of approximately 25 citizens met with Dave Murphy, who left his position as direct overseer of the landfill for DEP to work for MEA. We all met at the Methodist Church to hear MEA's plans and to let Mr. Murphy know of our opposition. Olin, after hearing of our opposition to the facility, withdrew their proposal. Instead they decided to go around our by-laws and seek a federal exemption for this solid waste facility through the Surface Transportation Board.

What actually happened to the liquor distribution center had nothing to do with citizen outcry! In fact, it was the liquor distributor's union workers that caused the unraveling of the deal. This union hired an environmental law firm to review many of Olin's documents, including the Health Risk Assessment that Olin had done to allow redevelopment of their property. I do not know what particular issues were identified by the law firm that gave the union cold feet. Maybe what clinched their decision was that in the Health Risk Assessment, the Wilmington water supply was identified as a route of exposure for Olin contaminants and could not be ruled out as "No Significant Health Risk".

Several other citizens, as well as myself, commented to the Secretary of Environmental Affairs during the State's environmental review of the liquor warehouse/remediation plan. I stated that my comments were not intended to indicate opposition to the project but instead to express concerns regarding the pace of the clean-up and the rush to develop without full site discovery. I recall no comments in total opposition to the project. I guess I was correct about the site discovery, because since then NDMA, the carcinogen that has shut down our water supply, was discovered.

Vehemently opposing a C&D processing plant was the right thing to do. This area is very close to residents. These plants take old building materials, grind them up in what is like a huge blender and ship them off to landfills. One of those landfills most likely was going to be the Maple Meadow Brook landfill. Asbestos and many other airborne contaminants can result from these facilities. Never mind the excessive noise.

It is important to set this record straight. This editorial suggests that it is the citizens' fault we are faced with New England Transrail. Nothing could be further from the truth. It is Olin's fault for putting their bottom line ahead of the best interest of the community. I agree with the editor that if we forget history we are bound to repeat it. However, misrepresenting the historical record does not serve to assist us in avoiding the repetition of past mistakes.

Unfortunately, in the editorial those who have had the courage to fight for the protection of their community are painted in a negative light. As editor, it would much better serve the community for you to encourage citizen involvement and efforts to protect health and quality of life. Those who have given, and continue to give so much of themselves towards that end, deserve nothing less.

As a child, I saw my aunts and uncles as old. My grandparents were even older. I couldn't imagine being their age. I thought how sad to watch as your bodied morphed into something unrecognizable from years past. I imagined the devastation of a woman who saw wrinkles in her face. I vowed that it would not happen to me.

Without knowing it, I have turned into that old aunt.

I thought I was doing pretty well at dodging the age thing. In your early thirties, it's not too difficult to disguise. And, if you've been pregnant at any time during those years, there's always that excuse for the condition of any body parts that aren't looking as good as they should.

But, those years have somehow passed me by, and as I find myself in a new age category, I doubt I can keep up the facade.

It's interesting to meet parents with school-age children like your own. My first instinct is that I am much younger than they are. As conversation ensues, small innuendoes give reference to their actual age. It's a rude awakening when you find out they are in fact the same age, or worse yet, younger.

In horror, I realize they probably sized me up the same way. They probably thought I was older.

Over the years, my husband has been most supportive when it comes to the matter of how I look and feeding my self-confidence. On our wedding day he told me I looked really nice. Since a woman rarely looks better then than she did on her wedding day, the compliments have since been modified, saving that highest regard for our special day.

After having our first child, a nearly ten pounder delivered by c-section, I found myself in the predicament of finding something to wear to a wedding. Since I gained somewhere in the vicinity of sixty plus pounds, and having only had the baby three weeks earlier, my former clothes were, to say the least, a little ill-fitting.

In a selfless and sincere act, my husband stepped up to the plate. "Should I get the ab roller down from the attic?" Since I had yet to completely heal from my surgery, I thought it best not to take him up on his most kind and generous offer.

It's taken some time, but I've come to appreciate getting older. It's not about fighting the aging process; it's the recognition of coming into oneself. It's trying to get as much out of the time that's ahead with quiet appreciation.

With age comes wisdom beyond the imagination, contentment, clarity and utmost fulfillment. And, maybe a few wrinkles and a bigger dress size.

Have you been to a kids' party lately? What has happened to the good old party games we had as a kid? They've all been replaced with piñatas.

No more musical chairs. That's too bad. Remember that warm feeling of abject isolation you felt when the music stopped and there was no chair left for you? That was character building.

Okay, sure, pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey may have been a tad bit dangerous. Let's face facts; it is generally not a good policy to allow a blindfolded 5-year old with hypertension run amok with a sharp tack.

"Uh-oh, Timmy just pinned the tail on Grandma."

So then, what sense does it make to replace that scenario with a 5-year old child sporting Attention Deficit Disorder and a baseball bat smashing the bejeesus out of a cardboard donkey?

When exactly did piñatas begin monopolizing these parties, anyway? I never saw one when I was a kid and I went to my fair share of parties. It must have something to do with NAFTA.

Just what sort of lesson does a piñata teach children? Let's break it down. The initial goal is to smash the piñata with a blunt object until it completely breaks apart.

"Children, today we are going to learn the proper way to cause malicious destruction of property. Who wants to go first?"

And we wonder why teenagers go around smashing mailboxes? We encouraged it. These confused teenagers are going to keep smashing our mailboxes until they find one with some damn candy in it.

Once the piñata has been broken and all of the candy comes pouring out, the children are encouraged to barge through the crowd, pushing and shoving, and grab as much of the goodies as possible. Just a bunch of miniature looters going to work.

Meanwhile, you've got 600 hundred moms and dads cheering the whole thing on.

"C'mon Jimmy! Bash that thing to smithereens! Go for the head! Smash it in the head!"

That, at any rate is how a piñata is supposed to work, but it never goes quite that well.

My niece has a piñata at her birthday every year. My brother-in-law, Ed, doesn't have a good tree to hang the piñata from, so he ties it to the end of a 6-foot pole and holds it out over the kids.

The birthday girl gets the first turn of course. Kids are huddled all around behind her and with her first backswing she takes out 20 kids - the bulk of the competition.

The kids always start out wearing a blindfold. They're spun around three times and sent off in the vague direction of the worried piñata. The blindfold goes right out the window once Ed has taken it in the crotch three or four times.

Each kid gets a turn, but they're using a stupid little plastic broom stick while the piñata is made out of titanium steel, so they don't even make a dent in it. After three or four turns, little stragglers begin wandering off aimlessly looking for Hoodies.

As soon as each of the kids has suffered either a concussion or a torn rotator cuff the game comes to an end.

Out comes the cake and ice cream to replenish the kids' sugar levels.

Ed is supposed to be videotaping his daughter blowing out the candles, but he is busy out in the driveway running over the piñata with his car. He spent $20 on that damn piñata and, by God, he is going to get that thing open.

Meanwhile, the birthday girl has covered the cake with saliva while blowing out the candles and everyone wants a frosting flower. Mom is doing long division in her head to figure out how to evenly divide three flowers between 314 screaming kids. She'd like some help, but Ed has taken the piñata down to the basement. We can hear the table saw.

Now it's present time.

Kids always go for the biggest present first. The problem, however, is that an envelope is invariably taped to it. Why do grown-ups buy cards for little kids? For a kid too young to read, a birthday card is like a disciplinary time-out. It's an immovable object standing between the kid and unmitigated bliss. Mom steps in to read the card, essentially bringing the whole merry process to a halt. Ed could read the card, but the sounds of a chain saw and various profanities are now emanating from the basement.

The card is always far longer than it needs to be. Y'know what the card should say? "Here's a big present. Quick, open it."

The party tends to wind down after the presents are opened. The kids are wandering around twitching and grinding their teeth from sugar overload and the parents begin getting ready to leave when they spy Ed standing on the roof of his two story house holding the piñata and laughing maniacally.

He hurls the piñata, which lands with a thud on the cement patio and bursts open splattering candy all over the yard.

The kids are completely unfazed and nonchalantly begin picking up the candy while the Fire Department shows up with the ladder truck to help Ed down from his roof.

Every year we thank the fire fighters and offer them cake and ice cream. Every year they smile and politely decline while slipping Ed into a "special" jacket. Ed just keeps muttering, "Piñata, dead. Piñata, dead," as they close the ambulance door and take him away.

He'll be back in a week or two. He always is.

Happy Birthday Wilmington

Dear Editor,

On Saturday, September 24, the Wilmington Historical Commission, the Friends of Harnden Tavern and the Wilmington Minutemen Company hosted a Candlelight Concert at the Wilmington Town Museum at the Col. Joshua Harnden Tavern. Poor Richard's Penny and harpist Carol McIntyre, featured performers, provided the entertainment while concert goers enjoyed light refreshments prepared and served by the Friends of Harnden Tavern. Members of the Wilmington Minutemen Company escorted people to the Tavern, which was elegantly decorated for the occasion. A wonderful evening was had by all.

The following afternoon, Sunday, September 25, on the day of the town's 275th Anniversary, the Town Museum at the Harnden Tavern was open again as host of the Library's House Tour. The Friends of the Library organized this event, which featured private homes open to the public, as well as tours of the Tavern and the local Congregational Church. The House Tour was one of a series of events taking place on Sunday to celebrate the town's 275th Anniversary.

It is fitting that the town's historic jewel and our own town museum, the Col. Joshua Harnden Tavern, was open to the public on this anniversary weekend. Many people and organizations made these events at the Tavern possible. The Wilmington Historical Commission, the Friends of Harnden Tavern, the Wilmington Minutemen Company, the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library and the 275th Anniversary Committee were all involved in the planning and execution of the weekend's activities. Wilmington's Public Buildings Department provided tables and chairs for the Saturday night concert, as well as year round care and maintenance of the Tavern building. Wilmington's Department of Public Works, the Wilmington Garden Club and the generosity of Bob Engel & Son contributed to the beauty of the Tavern grounds for this anniversary weekend, with work that was begun many months earlier and the results of which were enjoyed by visitors to the Tavern this past summer.

Thank you to all who made the Wilmington Town Museum at the Col. Joshua Harnden Tavern a special place during this special celebration of our town's anniversary. And thank you to the public for your continued support and patronage of our Town Museum.

Happy Birthday, Wilmington!

Clean-up success

Dear Editor,
I wanted to thank the volunteers who participated in the Town Cleanup on Saturday, September 24th. I live on a block with a long stretch of wetlands, which is always a target for slobos throwing beer cans, nip bottles, and fast food waste out of their car windows. After Saturday, the vista was pristine, with no visible trash for a day or so.

Yesterday I spotted a Burger King bag, picked it up, and disposed of it in my trash barrel. So even though I did not personally participate, I certainly benefited, and I will do my best to keep the area looking cleaner from now on. Hopefully litterbugs will be inspired as well!

It's leaf time again

(editor's note: The following letter was sent to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen and is reprinted here at the author's request.)

Dear Sir or Madam:
It is leaf time again. I am aware of your decision to close the re-cycling center to individuals who wish to dispose of leaves. Your decision is based upon faulty data. Decomposing leaves do not emit an odor, rotting grass does. I call your attention to the recent re-sodding of Fenway Park due to the destruction of the field due to a concert stage being built over it. The grounds crew was quoted as saying the odor was overwhelming.

Several years ago, the use of the recycling center was limited to leaf dumping only. Then the town started allowing landscapers to dump grass clippings at the site. This is when the apparent problem started.

You are punishing the many for the sins of the few. I take approx. 150 bags of leaves a year to the recycling center. I am sure that I am not alone. To either buy biodegradable bags or barrels for town pickup would cause me and others to be burdened with another expense that I feel is absolutely without merit.

If the problem of commercial

(or residential dumping of large amounts of grass clippings) were to be monitored along with the monitoring of brush disposal the problem of abuse could be nearly eliminated. The use of TV Cameras is probably not out of the question.

A system of fines for misuse could also be devised.

Along with the above I would like to point out that the determination that the odor was above acceptable limits was purely subjective. I have yet to come upon a Stink-O-Meter. In addition, if the objections of odors were mainly from Woburn residents I would like to point out that during the summer months our prevailing winds are from the southwest. Away from the city of Woburn.

There is supposed to be an alternative site that is being made available.

It is now the time for either another site or the reopening of the present site for leaves and brush.

I ask your reconsideration, rethinking of this closure. The closing will cause a great and unnecessary expense to our towns residents.

Thank You,
Robert E. Doyle

For eleven years, I took the commuter rail into North Station. From there I took the orange line to the Ruggles T Station. For those of you that use public transportation and are familiar with the commuter rail and the T Stations in and around Boston, I don't have to tell you were this column is going.

I need to know why every odd-ball in the world has to wait for the train I'm on. If they could have only waited for one more train. I would have been all set. But, noooooo, they have to get on the same train and they have sit next to me. It's like some unwritten law obeyed by all weirdos. It must be written over some sink in a bathroom somewhere, I think.

"Hey Pete, it's this one. Now we can sit down."

On one occasion, I was quietly reading my book (because on the train making direct eye contact with anyone is tantamount to saying, "Please come sit here and bother the hell out of me") when what appeared to be a nice gentleman sat down beside me. I noticed that his shoes were a little more worn than what most people would find functional, but I was trying to rationalize that some people work at jobs where a dress code is optional. Of course I didn't dare look any further up because of the eye contact thing. At first he just turned his eyes toward me without moving his head, next he moved his head and looked at the book I was reading. Then he just stared. When I didn't turn to acknowledge him, he proceeded to announce to the entire train that I was what was wrong with the world.

"Go ahead ignore me! That's what's wrong with people today. No one wants to say 'hello' or 'How was your day?' they just sit there like they are the only people on the train!" Now, this is a car with people stuffed in like socks in a kid's drawer. All of a sudden, everyone is practicing the no eye contact rule. Do you know what it's like to have people stare around you? It's creepy. Everyone is practicing the rule except my gentleman friend that is. He is now standing in front of me, ranting. He finally got off the train after mumbling something about me being a "fascist". I guess Musolini didn't make eye contact on trains either.

The other wonderful thing about trains is the summertime. There is nothing quite like being packed into a subway car on a hot summer day, especially when they have power outages on the trains which is at least once a week. What makes the T think that it's OK to stuff people into a small space, then shut off all power on a hot summer day? Every time you turn around the fares are going up. Update the flippin' trains! Even New York has a better transit system than Boston and a lot cleaner too. That tells you something. It's not bad if the air conditioning is working but when it doesn't and the train stops for whatever reason - PEEEEYEWWWW. O.K., folks out there, we all work hard - but a little piece of gum or some mouthwash couldn't hurt and how about just a dab of deodorant, especially if you're going to hold on to the overhead rail?

I guess I shouldn't blame the people on the trains. It's me. I just attract different types of people, like the woman in a CVS store years ago that had to be escorted out of the store for following me around and burping in my ear. True story. And how about the day I was watching a parade with my kids and I spot this guy walking down the street yelling and pointing to no one in particular. Now mind you, there are a couple thousand people around. I turned to my husband and said,

"Hon, do you see that guy coming down the street? I just know he's going to talk to me."

My husband looked down the street and said, "Yup, he's definately going to talk to you."

I hid in a little alcove of a bank behind some other people enjoying the parade. The scruffy looking man went around the people in front of me, pointed his finger in my face and yelled, "It's all your fault!!" Then he just ambled along his merry way shouting and pointing.

Another true story - quite a few years ago I was in a McDonald's restaurant with a few friends of mine and they spotted a confused looking man with a determined look on his face crossing the street toward the restaurant.

My friend Rose said, "Who wants to bet he talks to Maria?"

My other friend Fran replied, "Are you crazy? Who'd take that bet? Of course he's going to talk to Maria."

The man walked over to our table, grabbed a chair from the table next to us and sat down next to me. Of course my friends instantly distanced themselves, and prepared for the show. They were used to this. The guy proceeded to tell me how he had just come back from a weekend with the Kennedys. He told me what a great guy Teddy was and smart too. That statement alone made him certifiable.

Well, I think the coast is clear so I'm going to run out for a gallon of milk. Wish me luck.

Wilmington House Tours

Dear Editor,
As a "Friend" of the Wilmington Library, I felt honored when asked to share the duties of host(ess) for one of the homes at the Wilmington House Tours on September 25th.

It was most generous of the residents to allow the public access to their homes. Before I began my "shift" as hostess, I was able to see all of the other homes. It was a wonderful experience!

I embraced the smells of the seasons in many homes from candles of apple pie and spices. Each home had it's own wonderful character and color, unique to the homeowners' taste. The color choices in many of the homes inspired me to take a chance with color in my own home! One beautifully bright, playroom had a lime green paint on the walls of the playroom which was nicely complemented with white valances. A truly rich color of burnt cranberry in one dining area made you feel the comfort and coziness of the room. A bathroom with bright red walls with black and white compliments caught my eye in another home. I also found a beautiful, earthtone (tan/brownish) paint on the walls rising up to a vaulted cathedral ceiling to be very calming and it gave the room a warm and cozy feeling to the large, newly renovated living area.

My favorite part of the house tour was welcoming the particular "presentation" of each home.

Most homes had soft music playing in the background, candles flickering ...and the eagerly anticipated apple aromas of the season. I embraced the creative and unique decorating ideas, the purposeful use of color and the playful use of twinkie lights in rooms and windows! You know who you are! This was a wonderful opportunity to meet new neighbors and see such lovely homes. Thank you to the Library and the Homeowners for this wonderfully inspiring, sharing event! A special thanks to my co-host Jim.... I was fortunate to be sharing this time with you.

Warm Regards,
Barbara Calhoun

Time for the state to step up

Dear Editor:
It's time for the state to step up and renew its commitment to Massachusetts municipalities. I just read that the first quarter of fiscal year 2006 state revenues were up an astounding $317 million in comparison to last year, September's tax collections were the second highest in state history, and the so-called rainy day reserve is nearing a record high $1.71 billion. Governor Romney welcomed this news by saying, "It's pretty clear that Massachusetts is back and firing on all cylinders". I beg to differ. The job is not yet done. Now that the state level reflects a more robust economic picture, our state legislators and the Governor must step to the plate to help relieve the impact reduced local aid has had on municipalities throughout Massachusetts over the past few years. Many communities have been forced to cut needed services and/or consider override votes to stabilize local affairs. Coupled with increasing mandates, local government has been forced to do much more with much less and resources are thin. Massachusetts has hailed the implementation of education reform and the MCAS testing/accountability process. Without increased state aid for municipalities, these noble goals that are showing results will be set back because local government cannot invest properly in education and critical services alone. Proposition 2 has controlled local tax collections, but the provision of local services works effectively only when there is a partnership with state government.

As the finance committee chair in my town of Tewksbury, I have seen firsthand the impact of reduced local aid on our community. This past budget cycle, the town was forced to rely on one time revenue to the tune of $1.8 million to reach a balanced budget. This is coupled with knowledge that new growth is stagnant and health and retirement costs are escalating at unprecedented rates. Recent events have caused fuel and energy costs to skyrocket. Meanwhile, local aid in Tewksbury is the rough equivalent of what it was in fiscal year 2002. Cost shifting is not progress.

During tight budget times, the responsible thing to do is cut spending to match available revenue. Now that the corner appears to have been turned in the state level, Beacon Hill the cussion should be foremost centered on righting the listing ship of municipal finance before other areas are addressed. After all, education and critical daily services to Massachusetts residents are largely delivered at the local level. Our legislators should not celebrate this positive economic news until they've addressed the restoration of predictable and reliable local aid levels to city and towns for both the short and long term.

Sincerely,
Todd Johnson

WIRED FOR POTENTIAL TROUBLE

If your home is more than 25 years old, it is probably due for an inspection of its electrical systems. Wiring deteriorates over time. In addition, these days the proliferation of home appliances exerts maximum stress on electrical systems. As a result, older homes are increasingly vulnerable to failure. According to a 5-year study by the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission, faulty electrical systems cause 40,000 house fires each year. Besides an estimated $2 billion in total damages, the human toll is 1,400 injuries and more than 300 deaths. For a relatively small fee, a licensed inspector (referred from your power company) can help assess the risk that an aging electrical system poses to your family.

Has your home electric system been upgraded? To find out what your current policy covers, just call us at 978-657-7200. We will help you examine every aspect for coverage. We meet your insurance needs with comprehensive coverage tailored to your particular requirements. Our services reflect our staff - honest, trustworthy, and sincere. We enjoy answering your insurance questions - we are here precisely for you! You'll Like the Way We do Business.™

NOTE: If you or the previous owner of your home substituted higher-capacity fuses for the originals to try to circumvent the problem of frequent blown fuses (caused by overloaded circuits), they can overburden the wiring and set the stage for a fire.

Wilmington Resident receives $30,000 Scholarship

Amalia M. Aruda of Wilmington is starting her freshman year at Georgetown University, empowered by a $30,000 Henry David Thoreau Scholarship. She is among a select group of 10 students from Massachusetts high schools to receive this major four-year grant for undergraduate study in the environmental field.

She also becomes the first Wilmington student to be designated a Henry David Thoreau Scholar.

The daughter of Mary and Wayne Aruda, Amalia graduated with distinction from

The Windsor School in Boston. She showed her commitment to environmental studies by studying marine science and co-leading the school's team for the Envirothon, a statewide competition. Earlier, she had become the first Windsor School pupil selected for the Envirothon.

Environmental studies spill over many disciplines. In Amalia's case, she also brought her concern for environmental matters into her English class, writing a paper for English class on the environmental impact of the fast-food industry.

During her high school summers, Amalia worked in the Cape Cod shellfish business—specifically, with Andrew Cummings, a Wellfleet aquaculturist who raises oysters and quahogs. As a result, she won a $500 award from the Shellfish Promotion and Tasting (SPAT) organization. She used the scholarship to develop a PowerPoint presentation on shellfish farming for Wellfleet and Boston students.

Established in 1999, the Henry David Thoreau Foundation has awarded nearly $1 million in undergraduate scholarships, internship stipends, and institutional grants to outstanding high school seniors. Each year the Foundation names from 10-14 students as Henry David Thoreau Scholars. To date, close to 80 students from all over the state have achieved the honor. They study at renowned colleges and universities throughout the United States. After they receive their bachelor's degrees, they join the Henry David Thoreau Society for the Environment, a graduate professional association.

Boutselis Family Dental Care and Enterprise Bank

The Boutselis family needed a larger space with better accessibility for their patients. They decided to move their practice and build a new facility in Tewksbury. They turned to Enterprise Bank for the advice they needed to make the right financial decisions for their expansion.

The result: a spacious, state-of-the-art and aesthetically beautiful dental office for the many patients who trust their care.

"The process was highly personalized and hassle free for us," said Dr. George Boutselis. "We trust Enterprise with all of our commercial banking needs and we would recommend them to anyone in professional practice."

For more information on how an Enterprise Banker can help you create more opportunities for your business, call Tracy Clement or Bill Collins at the Tewksbury branch (1120 Main Street), 978-851-0900.

Dorothy A. Gay co-founder of Plaza Limousine; 80

Dorothy A. (Hackett) Gay, age 80, a co-founder of Plaza Limousine, died Thursday morning, Sept. 29, at the Wentworth Skilled Care Center in Lowell, after a long period of declining health. She was the wife of the late John R. Gay.

She was a member of Holy Family Church, formerly St. Marie's Church, in South Lowell.

She was a co-founder of Plaza Limousine Limited, where she worked as a manager until retirement.

Mrs. Gay, was fondly recalled by her family as having been a lifelong Red Sox fan.

She is survived by three sons and a daughter-in-law, Michael F. Gay, Robert E. Gay, Richard J. Gay and his wife Patricia (Bordeau) all of Lowell; a daughter and son-in-law, Mary D. Nottle and her husband Scott of Tewksbury; two sisters, Mary McCarthy of West Roxbury and Margaret Niland of Dedham; five grandchildren, Kristin Donnelly, Robert Gay, Scott Nottle, Kimberly Gay and Richard Gay; and many nieces and nephews.

She was also mother of the late Dennis W. Gay.

Her Funeral Mass was held Monday, Oct. 3, in Holy Family Church, 75 Chamberlain St. So. Lowell. Interment was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Tewksbury. Memorials to the Joslin Diabetes Center, 1 Joslin Pl., Boston, MA 02215, will be appreciated. tewksburyfuneralhome.com

She was born in West Roxbury, on Sept. 25, 1925, a daughter of the late Edward and Mary (Lynch) Hackett. She was raised in West Roxbury, and graduated from West Roxbury High School. She lived in Billerica for most of her life, and moved to South Lowell twenty years ago. Throughout her life, she had summered at Rangeley Lake in Maine.

Brian S. Godin, 25

Mr. Brian S. Godin, 25, of Wilmington, died unexpectedly, Monday October 3, 2005.

He was born April 8, 1980, in Malden, MA, he was the beloved son of Marjane (Kirby) Godin of Wilmington and Daniel Godin of Saugus.

Brian was a life-long resident of Wilmington, where he was educated and graduated from Wilmington High School in 1998.

He was involved in Wilmington Little League in his early years, he also loved to fish, hike, and camp, and he had a love for music.

Besides his parents, Brian is survived by his three brothers Daniel Godin of Washington, DC, David Godin & his wife Heather of Dracut, Dennis Godin & his fiancé Christine Dearing of Lowell, he was the uncle of Taylor Rose Godin, Brian is also survived by many aunts, uncles, cousins & friends.

His funeral will be held from the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas Church at 10:30 a.m. Interment Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Visiting hours will be held on Thursday from 5-9 p.m.

Mr. Donald D. Murphy, 78

Mr. Donald D. Murphy, 78, of Wilmington, died, Tuesday, September 27, 2005 at the Lahey Clinic Medical Center in Burlington.

Mr. Murphy was born August 9, 1927, in Medford, Massachusetts, he was the son of the late Jeremiah and Anna Constance (Trafford) Murphy.

He grew up in the Cambridge and East Cambridge area.

Donald was employed as a commercial painter and window washer for several companies until he started his own business known as Circle Window Cleaning & Painting, where he satisfied many customers and took much pride in his work. Donald loved to visit Revere Beach and go to Kelley's Roastbeef. He was a lover of music from classical to country, he loved to entertain by playing the ukulele, guitar, trumpet, and banjo, he was known to everyone as "Mr. Social Butterfly", because of his love of people and his way of showing kindness and friendship to so many. Donald was an animal lover and he renamed the family pets to match their temperaments. But most of all he loved his grandchildren and enjoyed spending time with them.

Don was the beloved husband and best friend of Mary G. (DeLuca) Murphy of Wilmington, father of Patricia & Phyllis Murphy, Step-father of Doreen Crowe & her husband Robert and Andrea Sylvester all of Wilmington, and William Sylvester & his wife Sally of Virginia, brother of Gerald Murphy of CT and his twin sister the late Doris A. Murphy, grandfather of Bobby, Stephen, Heather, Andrew, & James, also survived by his animals & companions Mikey & Chochise.

His funeral was held from the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Saturday morning followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas Church. Interment Wildwood Cemetery. Memorial donation's in Donald's name may be made to the American Red Cross National Headquarters, "Hurricane Katrina Fund", 2025 E Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20006.

Edward J. Turowsky Jr. Navy Veteran, of Tewksbury; 65

Edward J. Turowsky Jr., age 65, a resident of Tewksbury for fifty years, died Thursday, Sept. 29, at the Jewish Memorial Hospital in Boston after a lengthy illness.

He was born in Cambridge, October 17, 1939, a son of the late Edward and Anne (Navikas) Turowsky. He was raised in Cambridge, and moved to Tewksbury in 1955. Most recently, he lived in the Carnation Drive elderly community in Tewksbury.

He served in the U.S. Navy during the years between WWII and the Korean War, and sailed the Atlantic Ocean and Mediterranean Sea.

He was employed as a security officer at several area companies, and had also worked with the medical staff at Tewksbury. Mr. Turowsky was a devout Catholic, who received his Catholic Confirmation at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome in 1959. He was a communicant of St. William's Church in Tewksbury.

He was also a member of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Lodge, 2047.

He is survived by one brother, Joseph Turowsky of New Mexico; a nephew, Edward A. Turowsky also of N.M.; and many dear friends throughout the Tewksbury community.

A graveside Service was held Monday, Oct. 3, in Tewksbury Cemetery. Memorials to the American Cancer Society, 30 Speen St., Framingham, MA 01701 will be appreciated. Arrangements are through the Tewksbury Funeral Home. tewksburyfuneralhome.com

Red Cross is relying on you

The American Red Cross is relying on the American people to assist the victims of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita - and the next hurricane relief effort - with their donations to the Disaster Relief Fund. Hurricane season is not over, and giving to the Disaster Relief Fund has never been more important.

As of today, the American Red Cross estimates that approximately $1.104 billion has been spent or committed to Hurricane Katrina relief.

Of this money, $603 million has been used for financial assistance for nearly 608,000 families. Funds have also been spent on food, shelter, counseling and sending volunteers to the affected areas.

The Red Cross has raised $946.5 million in gifts and pledges; approximately $700 million has actually been received, with the remainder in the pipeline or still in pledge form.

With the total cost estimate for Katrina relief alone at over $2 billion, we are still very dependent upon the generosity of the American people to deliver our services.

The best way to help is by making an online contribution to the Disaster Relief Fund at <http://www.redcross.org>. You can also help by calling 1-800-HELP-NOW.

The American public depends on the American Red Cross when disaster strikes.

• The American Red Cross continues to respond to the victims of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, but the cost of this response is quickly draining resources.

• The American Red Cross also responds to other disasters, such as single family fires, while making sure victims of the hurricanes receive emergency assistance.

• As the needs assessment of Hurricane Rita continues, the Red Cross will determine the best way to provide a bridge of assistance to those with urgent needs.

• The Red Cross is coordinating with a large network of governmental partners and relief agencies to provide relief to those affected by the hurricanes this season.

Locally, the Merrimack Valley Chapter has assisted 57 families affected by the hurricanes. We have trained over 350 new volunteers. We have also deployed 41 volunteers to the affected area.

Don't miss the Tasting Festival

It's Tasting Festival time for the Wilmington Family Counseling Service again! You may be wondering what is a Tasting Festival anyway? It is a dining event featuring the specialties of a variety of restaurants and/or caterers usually as a fundraiser for a charitable organization. It is a diner's treat not only for the all-you-can-eat buffet types, but even more so for those who choose desserts savoring only those they find irresistible. It also is a great place to survey caterers if someone is planning a wedding or other social occasion. Most important of all, it is a fun evening for a local cause.

This year's Evening of Gourmet Delights Tasting Festival will be held at the Casa di Fior on Sunday, November 6, 5:00 - 7:30 p.m. Funds raised will provide counseling for a wide variety of problems from substance abusing teens, to divorcing families, to bullied kids, to fathers too anxious to go to work and mothers too depressed to parent their kids.

"This Tasting Festival has become crucial to our providing services to low-income families without health insurance," explains Pamela Corrigan, President of the Board. "With so much concern for hurricane victims in the South, it is important that people continue to support local charities. At $20 per person, it is a reasonable price for a delicious dining night out that still leaves money for gas for the car."

This year's line-up of restaurants and caterers features the specialties of Alden Merrill, Casa di Fior, Country Chef Restaurant, Cusano's Italian Kitchen, Delicious Desserts, Focaccias, Mastorilli's Catering, Raphael's Concord Street Grill, Ristorante Daniela, and Rocco's Restaurant.

Matt DePasquale, from the recently re-opened Rocco's Restaurant explains, "Participating in the Wilmington Family Counseling Service Tasting Festival is a pleasure for us. We enjoy the enthusiasm of the diners, the camaraderie of the restaurants, and the excitement of great raffle prizes. As this year's Wilmington Good Guys, we wouldn't miss this chance to support the Counseling Services great work in the community."

For those enjoying raffles and silent auctions, the event has great prizes including Bruins and Celtics tickets, theater tickets, overnight Bed and Breakfast stay at the Andover/Tewksbury Holiday Inn, gift certificates to ten different restaurants including Sunday Brunch at the Meritage Restaurant at the Boston Harbor Hotel, and gifts from many local businesses such as Leduc's Card and Gift and Sense of Wonder.

James Mahoney of Por-Shun, Inc., explains he is happy to support the community by sponsoring the event so that all the funds raised can be used for counseling low-income families and parenting groups. Mr. Mahoney is a former Board of Health member. His company is a full-service dairy selling milk, cream, butter, cheese, and eggs under the Oakhurst brand-name at area stores, restaurants, and hotels.

Tickets are available in Wilmington at:

Focaccia, Square One, 2 Lowell Street

Uptown Deli, 363 Middlesex Avenue

Wilmington T-Stop, 424 Main Street.

Tables of ten may be reserved at the Wilmington Family Counseling Service office, 5 Middlesex Avenue, Suite 11, Wilmington. Because of sold-out capacity the last three years, no tickets will be available at the door.

CMARC celebrates residential success

TEWKSBURY - Tucked in the end of a cul de sac in a lovely, wooded neighborhood in Tewksbury stands a very special home. Meredith Road, CMARC's newest residence, provides supports and services to five recent graduates of the Boston Higashi School—a specialized educational program for children and young adults living with Autism Spectrum Disorders. CMARC developed this innovative model in the spring of 2004 to continue providing the structures implemented and learned at the Higashi School.

As with all of CMARC's residential programs, the goal for the Meredith Road home is to provide its residents with the clinical support needed to become increasingly productive and integrated into community living.

In August of 2004, Adam, Andy, Daniel, Nicol and Nina moved into the beautiful two-story, five-bedroom home. To make such a move after many years (in excess of 15), this group of young adults displayed much courage and perseverance. Although establishing the program has presented some exciting challenges, CMARC is extremely pleased and very proud of the group's successful transition.

On Thursday, September 29th, CMARC celebrated the successful first year of this innovative new residential model with an open house. CMARC Chief Executive Officer Sheri McCann remarked, "Such success is largely due to training resources available from the Higashi School for CMARC Residential staff and to the support provided by a unique family network."

"Family members and CMARC staff collaborate to provide these young adults with exceptional supports and services necessary to meet their needs," states Director of Residential Services, Julie LaFleur. As one parent, Frank Sespico, elaborates, "This is forever for the kids. It is well worth our time and effort to help make this program succeed."

"It's a privilege to work there," states Program Manager Emily Pemberton. "It is wonderful to work with these young adults and their families and watch them grow."

CMARC, a Woburn-based, not-for-profit organization, provides for people with disabilities the support needed to live, work, learn, grow, and participate to their fullest potential in their community. In addition to its residential program, CMARC offers behavioral and clinical services, career development services, day habilitation services, employment and vocational services, and transportation.

For more information about CMARC, please call 781-935-7057 or visit the CMARC website www.cmarc.org.

Program managers for the 3 local adult autistic homes are: Lynette DeSimone, Woburn Street in Wilmington, Emily Pemberton, Meredith Road in Tewksbury and Lisa Ferendez, Deming Way in Wilmington, met at the Meredith Road home for an open house last Friday.

Tewksbury Council on Aging Notes Tewksbury Senior Center temporarily relocated

Susan Crispps from Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley will be at the newly located Senior Center (the White House), 460 East Street, today, October 6th, to discuss the new Medicare Part D program. This seminar will begin at 9:00 a.m.

This Thursday evening the GAC show practice will be held at the Rod and Gun Club beginning at 6:00 p.m. Participants are reminded that the Rod and Gun Club is located at 79 Chandler Street just three doors down from the vacated Senior Center.

As of October 7th, the hot lunch program will resume at the White House, 460 East Street. The monthly Senior Center "Cootie Party" will be held after lunch at the White House beginning at 1:00 p.m. Please note that due to the relocation, things may be a bit unsettled for the first week or two...so please bear with us. It will take a while for everyone to get accustomed to all the changes.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all those people who have helped with our relocation: Kevin Hansen; Dennis Sheehan; the Middlesex Sheriff's Office; the Jones Family; the Senior Citizens and staff; Tewksbury DPW and Parks Department; Tewksbury Hospital personnel; all satellite sites (Tewksbury Library, Rod & Gun Club, Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks Lodge; Tewksbury Housing Authority); and, those vendors who worked on short notice to get the "White House" prepared for occupancy. I would especially like to thank Mrs. Kay Maher who worked with me this past weekend packing and labeling for the move.

The Senior Center will be closed on Monday, September 10th, in recognition of Columbus Day.

Starting next week, all White House programs and activities should be in operation. A list of programs and locations is available at the Senior Center. For further information one may call the COA staff at 978-640-4480. In advance we thank all program participants for their anticipated cooperation.

Dr. Smith will conduct a Podiatry Clinic on Tuesday, October 11th at the White House, 460 East Street. This clinic is now full. If one has a podiatry appointment and finds that he/she is unable to attend, please call the Center at 978-640-4480 to let the staff know. Your cooperation will enable someone on the waiting list to attend.

On Wednesday, October 12th, Mr. Jack Tomey from the State Probate and Family Court Department will conduct a seminar at the White House, 460 East Street. This seminar will begin at 9:30 a.m. The topic of discussion will be wills, trusts, probate procedures and related issues. One is asked to sign-up if planning to attend, by calling the Center at 978-640-4480.

The following COA day trips have been scheduled:

*Wednesday, October 26th - Mohegan Sun at $20 per person.

*Tuesday, October 18th - lunch and entertainment by Lauren and Joseph Musumeci the "Teenage Sibling Singing Sensation" at Venus DeMilo in Swansea at $60 including motorcoach transportation and lunch.

*Thursday, December 1st - "That Christmas Feeling" show starring John MacNally at Lantana's in Randolph at a cost of $60 including motorcoach transportation and a turkey luncheon with all the trimmings.

A Carnation Belle will be at the White House on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays afternoons from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. to sell the following Red

Hat event tickets:

- Friday, October 21st - Castle Hill (Cranes Estate) morning tour with lunch at the Village Restaurant in Essex and browsing the antique shops after lunch. Depending on one's meal choice, the trip cost is either $43 or $45.

- Saturday, October 29th - Public House & Wright's. More information will be noted next week.

- A November State House Tour with Representative Miceli - Details to be announced soon.

- Friday, November 18th - American Textile Museum in Lowell including the "Finishing Touches" exhibit of accessories, lunch and a visit to St. John's Church to see a display of more than 200 Nativity scenes. The trip cost is $38 per person.

- Thursday, December 8th - "White Christmas" performance at the Wang Center. This trip is now full with waiting list only status; and,

- Sunday, December 4th - "It's Christmas Time" at the Regal Theatre in Waltham. $52 per person. Deposits are due as soon as possible to secure reservations.

God Bless America!

Wilmington ATM thieves plead guilty to charges

BOSTON (AP) - Two brothers have pleaded guilty in federal court to stealing $100,000 from an ATM, then using the money for an extravagant spending spree.

Brian Todd, 29, of Haverhill, and Shaun Todd, 27, of Derry, N.H. pleaded guilty on Monday to bank larceny.

Brian Todd in 1999 began working for Brinks Inc., which transported money to and from several Fleet Bank automated teller machines in eastern Massachusetts. His job gave him access to a key that opened the rear door to the ATMs, a password to deactivate alarms, and the combination to a drop safes containing money.

When he quit the job in September 2000, he kept the key that gave him ATM access, prosecutors said. The next month, the brothers drove to an ATM in Wilmington, and using the key, stole $100,000, prosecutors said.

The brothers then spent more than $30,000 of the stolen money, including about $17,000 on stereo and video equipment for three vehicles. Sentencing is scheduled for Jan. 6. The Todd brothers each face a maximum of 10 years behind bars and a $250,000 fine.

Wilmington Senior News

Beginning January 1, 2006, a new program will provide prescription drug coverage under Medicare. Insurance companies and other private companies will work with Medicare to offer drug plans. They will negotiate discounts on drug prices. Medicare prescription drug plans provide insurance coverage for prescription drugs. Like other insurance, if you join you will pay a monthly premium (generally about $37 in 2006) and pay a share of the cost of your prescription. Costs vary depending on the drug plan you choose. On Monday October 17, 2005 Cindy Phillips the regional director of the SHINE program and Cheryl Gersek a representative from Congressman Tierney's office will join together in helping everyone understand Medicare's new prescription drug program. This is your opportunity to hear the updated information and have any questions you may want answered.

Having a hard time paying for the heating bills? Don't struggle on your own. WE CAN HELP. The Community Teamwork, Inc. Fuel Assistance Program is open to new applicants starting November 1, 2005. Fuel Assistance can help pay part of your home's winter heating bill. Anyone who is 60 years or older and in need of fuel assistance, should call Terri Marciello at the Buzzell Senior Center, 15 School Street (978-657-7595). The new applications are in and Terri is making appointments starting in October in assisting new applicants. Residents under the age of 60 should contact the Billerica Veteran's Agent (978-671-0968) for assistance. The following are the income guidelines:

Household Size	Annual Gross Income
2	$25,660
3	$32,180
5	$45,220

On Wednesday October 12, 2005 at 1:00PM the Department of Elderly Services will be having its first fashion show to raise funds for the Wilmington High School Scholarship Fund. There will be fashions from the 1800's to today - including many beautiful wedding gowns. There will be light refreshments. Anyone interested in being apart of this great event, please contact Judy Simmons at the center. The costs of the tickets are $4.00 per person and can be purchased at the Buzzell Senior Center (space is limited).

On Monday October 24, 2005 the Department is very excited to offer another program that is sponsored through the Lahey Clinic Burlington Community Grant - called the Healthy Eating for Successful Living in Older Adults Workshop. The focus of the program is to stress heart and bone healthy nutrition strategies to help maintain or improve participants' wellness and independence and prevent progression.

The workshop is conducted over 6 weeks, meeting weekly for two and half hours per session. A restaurant outing is included at the 7th session to apply the skills and knowledge you have learned during the workshop. The requirements for the workshop are - commitment to attend ALL six sessions, keep a daily food guide journal and try to make one nutrition change each week. If you are interested you must fill out a registration form. (Limited class size to 8 to 10 participants)

Lastly, there is a sign up for the Spirit of Boston Trip on October 3, 2005 - the actual trip will be on Wednesday October 26, 2005. The trip includes a lovely ride in the Boston Harbor while having a delicious buffet lunch along with great entertainment. The cost of the trip is $30.00 per person.

Forty million Americans (adults and children) suffer daily from headaches. Whether they are occasional, frequent, dull, or cause nausea, many people do nothing more than take a pain pill and wait for the next headache to commence. Is it because they think headaches are a normal life expense? Headaches may be common but they are not normal - your body is telling you that something is not right and needs to be addressed.

Maybe people are confused by the various classifications of headaches. I have had many patients who come for relief from what they think are migraines when, in fact, they have severe tension headache, and vice versa. So it is important as a first step to prevention and treatment to know your headaches.

All headaches are characterized by some type of head pain, but each has their own underlying cause. There are two main types of headaches: primary and secondary. Ninety-five percent of headaches are primary headaches. They are classified as such because they are not caused by other diseases. We will focus on these primary types, such as tension, migraine, and cluster headaches.

Tension Headaches are the most common type and are caused by muscle contractions in the head, neck and shoulders. These are usually related to stress, fatigue, emotional conflicts or depression. Motor vehicle accidents, tight hats, and pulled back hair are also common culprits. Long hours in a sedentary, fixed position (the typical American worker), can increase joint irritation and tension in the neck, upper back and scalp. These headaches most commonly present in a "band-like" pattern across the head and temples and will present with multiple tender or "trigger points" in the neck and upper back muscles that may refer pain to specifically targeted regions in the head.

Migraine Headaches are induced by blood vessels narrowing and expanding. The causes vary but usually have triggers that may differ for each person. Pain is usually throbbing, one-sided or worse on one side and is mostly affected by light rather than noise. In some cases, a visual "aura" presents prior to the headache or vomiting may occur. Recent studies reveal that chronic sinus headaches may actually fall under migraines. Sinus headaches worsen with bending the head forward and result from increased sinus pressure. If past sinus medicinals haven't worked in the past, look to supplements for migraines.

Cluster Headaches, though rare, can be the most painful as they produce an excruciating, deep, stabbing pain that occurs in a small, focal area of the head (usually on the side). The pain commences quickly and reaches a crescendo within 2 to 15 minutes. Cluster headaches are more common in men and heavy smokers.

So what can you do for a headache? Once you know your type you can follow some simple tips to help lessen the frequency and severity of your headache all on your own.

If you spend a large amount of time in one fixed position, such as in front of a computer, or reading, take a break and stretch every 30 minutes to one hour. The stretches should take your head and neck through a comfortable range of motion. Be attentive to maintaining proper posture at all times.

Low-impact exercise may help relieve the pain. Engage in activities such as yoga, walking and swimming.

Avoid teeth clenching. The upper teeth should never touch the lowers, except when swallowing. This results in stress at the temporomandibular joints (TMJ) - the two joints that connect your jaw to your skull - leading to TMJ irritation and a form of tension headaches.

Drink at least eight 8-ounce glasses of water a day to avoid dehydration, which can lead to headaches.

Avoid "triggers" such as caffeine. Foods such as chocolate, coffee, sodas and cocoa contain high levels of the stimulant. Avoid foods with a high salt or sugar content. These foods may cause migraines, resulting in sensitivity to light, noise, or abrupt movements. Avoid drinking alcoholic beverages. These drinks can dehydrate you and cause headache pain. Other headache sufferers may want to avoid not only caffeine, but also high-protein foods, dairy products, red meat and salty foods.

As for a natural medicinal approach, knowing your headache is the key in terms of treatment and preventative options. What works for a tension headache will most likely not work for a migraine or sinus headache. Supplements such as Magnesium, B complex vitamins, the herb Feverfew or hormonal supplements may be advised. Purification programs that detoxify the body may be advised, especially in cases with various other issues. Be sure to ask your specialist of a reputable program.

When caring for your headaches it is important to remember that there are many natural approaches to treating people who suffer from these maladies. Studies have shown that many complimentary and alternative medicines (CAM) have been proven beneficial at treating and preventing headaches. Ask around to find out which may be right for you. It is also important to remember that all headaches are not primary and may be a warning sign of something far more serious. If your pain is not relieved by typical CAM approaches it may be a sign that you have a headache that is not primary in nature and is something more serious - one that requires further medical testing.

Wilmington Library Notes

by Christina Stewart

Fall is a busy season for the library

Wilmington's Bond Collection
At the Library's Apple Festival on Saturday, September 17th, residents had the opportunity to see a variety of old photographs, primary sources and documents relating to the people and history of Wilmington. This collection originally belonged to Arthur Thomas Bond, a Wilmington resident born in 1852, who was very interested in history and genealogy. The story is that Mr. Bond left town with his collection after he was denied public funding at a Town Meeting in 1906 to write a history using the information he had amassed. In 1997, the Wilmington Historical Commission was notified that a reader was in possession of Mr. Bond's historical documents and was interested in selling the collection to the Town. The collection is under the care of the Wilmington Historical Commission and housed in the library's Bicentennial Room in locked cabinets and exhibit cases. Due to the value and fragility of some of the documents, access to the Bond Collection is allowed only with permission of the Chairman of the Wilmington Historical Commission.

"Special thanks to Carolyn Harris, Chairman of the Wilmington Historical Commission, Terri McDermott, Town Curator and Kathleen Reynolds, former Town Curator for organizing the Bond Collection display and being available at the Apple Festival to answer questions about these valuable and interesting documents."

Wilmington House Tour
Everyone who participated in the Friends of the Library House Tour on Sunday, September 25th enjoyed the opportunity to get an inside glimpse of a some beautiful Wilmington homes, both historical and modern. Thank you to all the homeowners for graciously opening their homes for this event. The hard work of the following members of the House Tour Committee is acknowledged: Johanna Anderson, Chairman, Karen Campbell, Barbara Hooper, Shirley Hadfield, Terry McDermott and Charlotte Stewart.

Piano recital and lecture entitled "Inspiration"
An afternoon piano recital will be presented at the library on Wednesday, October 19th at 1 p.m. Alfred Watson, a classmate of Van Cliburn, and a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, New York will present "Inspiration." He has performed at various venues such as Carnegie Hall, colleges and universities, and at Zelazowa Wola, Terry McDermott, Wilmington's Town Curator, and her daughter Elizabeth, oversee the Bond Collection documents at the library's Apple Festival on September 17th.

Poland, as a special guest at the Chopin Festival. During his presentation, Mr. Watson will discuss how the great composers were inspired to write their music and play selected pieces. Feel free to bring a brown bag lunch and enjoy a live musical performance on your lunch break. Sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Beverages and cookies will be served.

Building Route 128
David Kruh will present a slide show based on his book Building Route 128 which he co-wrote with Yanni Tsipis on Wednesday, October 12 at 7 p.m. David will present the complete story of Route 128, from its beginning in the 1920's as an ad hoc collection of two lane roads through the construction of the divided highway in the 1950's. The slide show includes images from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, as well as the archives of many of the over two dozen towns and cities through which the highway passes. Sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Upcoming Events for Children Book Discussions
Amber Brown is Not a Crayon by Paula Danziger is the book that will be discussed by kids ages seven and older on Friday, October 7th at 3:30 pm. Kids ages nine and older will be discussing the second title in a best-selling fantasy series, Artemis Fowl: The Arctic Incident by Eoin Colfer, on Friday, October 14th at 3:30 pm. In order to free his father from the Russian Mafiya, Artemis, child criminal mastermind, joins forces with the fairy police and his familiar nemesis, Captain Holly Short. Books for the discussions may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. Drop-in for lively discussion, light refreshments and a door prize.

Star Mag Meeting
Young artists and writers ages eight and older are invited to have their artwork and writings published in Star Mag meetings. Drop-in with your finished work at the next Star Mag meeting on Wednesday, October 12th at 3:30 pm. We will be considering material for the fall issue. The meetings are informal and include refreshments and a door prize. Future meetings will be held on November 9th and December 7th.

Teen Movie Night:
The next Teen Movie Night will be on Monday October 17th at 6:30 p.m. We're showing a brand new release! Come watch The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants, based on the bestselling book by the same name. It's the best deal in town: a free movie on the big screen, with your friends plus free popcorn! Bring something comfortable to sit on if you wish.

Deadline to Register to Vote
In order to vote at the Special Town Meeting on November 1st and at the Special Election on November 8th, Wilmington residents who are not registered voters need to register to vote by Wednesday-October 12th. Voter registration forms are available at the library. These forms can be mailed to the Town Hall and must be postmarked October 12, 2005. The Town Clerk's Office will be open on Wednesday October 12th from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. for voter registration.

"I just wanted to do something to help out," said Shawsheen Tech senior Killian Casey, a Billerica resident and Health Technology student who donated blood for the first time. "I was a little nervous." Casey was among the many students, teachers and staff that participated in the blood drive and helped Saints Memorial Medical Center collect 50 units of desperately needed blood. "The eleventh graders from Health Technology program were involved in the planning and scheduling process as well as assisting the SMMC team," said Shawsheen Tech Services Department Chairperson Dianne Norkiewicz. In addition to the vocational-technical school's Health Technology program co-sponsoring a blood drive with Saints Memorial Medical Center, Shawsheen Tech Student Council members organized a can drive that raised $2,000 for tremendous turnout from both the students and staff for this event shows that there is a sincere concern for others."

That concern extended to the Shawsheen Tech Student Council and forty volunteers who spent a week visiting each of the school's 35 homerooms collecting money for the victims of Katrina.

"To collect $2,000 in a week by just visiting classrooms with donation cans speaks volumes to the generosity and compassion of the students and staff alike," said Shawsheen Tech Student Council Co-Advisor Ellen Mountain. "We had students donating everything from loose change to $20 bills. It was very impressive to see the response by everyone involved."

"The eleventh graders from Health Technology program were involved in the planning and scheduling process as well as assisting the SMMC team," said Shawsheen Tech Services Department Chairperson Dianne Norkiewicz. "The

The National Arbor Day foundation ten free trees

Ten free trees, autumn classics, will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during October 2005.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten trees are 2 Sugar Maples, Scarlet Oak, Sweetgum, Red Oak, Silver Maple, White Dogwood, Washington Hawthorn, and 2 Red Maples. "These trees will produce vibrant red, orange, yellow, scarlet, and purple leaves in the fall," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said.

The trees will be shipped post-paid at the right time for planting between November 1 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

To receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to AUTUMN CLASSIC TREES, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by October 31, 2005. Or join online at arborday.org.

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Elisabeth DesMarnis

The return of Chess Instructor Glenn Davison

Tewksbury Public Library's monthly chess club meeting for October will welcome back chess instructor Glenn Davison of Chelmsford. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday evening, October 11 at 6:30 pm in the library's first floor Meeting Room. All ages and ability levels are invited and registration is not required. New members are welcome; there are no charges to attend the club's sessions.

Participants can bring their own boards and pieces or use the sets generously provided for the club by the Friends of the Library. The club meets regularly on the second Tuesday evening of each month.

At the October meeting, Mr. Davison will review strategies from his previous "beginners" workshop last spring and will then introduce "advanced beginners movers." His initial presentation at the public library six months ago during National Library Week was attended by more than fifty chess players of all ages, from 8 to 80 years, and was the impetus for the club's creation.

On October 11, Mr. Davison's syllabus for the evening will include the following:

- simple checkmates
- openings with control of the center
- openings and wasted time

- forks and pins
- ten techniques for a better game

According to Davison, "Chess is the most popular game in the world. By teaching chess to students of all ages, I'm giving them the opportunity to sharpen their mind in a relaxed atmosphere. I challenge them and they often surprise me with how much they know and how much they're willing to learn. It's not easy. Some start late in life and some begin playing chess before they learn to focus. But it seems to me that everyone who has attended my chess seminars enjoy them, especially me."

A note for our Harry Potter fans, Mr. Davison teaches "Muggle Chess, not Wizard Chess." For many youngsters today, the Harry Potter novels are their first introduction to this game of thinking, strategy and concentration. In both the book and the movie, "Harry Potter and the Sorcerer's Stone," the climactic finale involves a dramatic, nail-biting scene of Wizard Chess played by Harry, Ron & Hermione.

Davison, who has played chess for more than thirty years, says that he plays for fun. While he enjoys teaching chess, he doesn't compete in chess tournaments. He plays daily against people, computers and across the Internet. "Chess is challenging. You think it is hard, then you learn more, and you think it's easy, then you learn more and you realize that there's so much more to learn! Each game is different from the last," says Davison.

Glenn Davison is a Member and Chess Instructor for the Massachusetts Chess Association. His web site is <http://home.comcast.net/~davison/>.

The Chess Club is sponsored in part by the Friends of the Library, who use their funds to supplement the public library's annual budget. In addition to providing chess kits for the chess club, the Friends furnish refreshments for the club's monthly meetings.

October at the Tewksbury Public Library is traditionally a time of outreach to adults, with special presentations, workshops and other events. The public library's web page www.tewksburypl.org is updated on a regular basis and contains a wealth of information. Check out the site for news of upcoming events and other services, announcements of used book sales, and holiday closing schedules. Residents can also sign up for e-mail notification of library events to have library news delivered directly to an e-mail address.

Legislators, parents and students launch new license plate concept

Wilmington's senator in the forefront

BOSTON - Senate Minority Whip Bruce Tarr (R-Gloucester) was joined today by legislative colleagues, the families of victims of violent crimes and other proponents of new technology to launch a new concept for a license plate design in Massachusetts. The concept is outlined in legislation, "An Act to Improve License Plates" to be filed by Tarr and others in the next few days.

Speaking at a State House press conference held earlier, John and Maggie Bish, Ed and Lois Smart, and students from the Brown Middle School in Newton supported the concept. Senator Stephen Brewer, (D-Barre), Representative Anthony Verga (D-Gloucester), Representative Brad Hill (R-Ipswich), and Representative Anne Gobi, (D-Spencer), and Representative Todd Smola, (D-Palmer) have been collaborating with Tarr in creating this legislation.

The proposed legislation seeks to make improvements in the license plate system in Massachusetts by combining commonly recognizable symbols with alpha-numeric characters. Currently the license plate system in Massachusetts utilizes a combination of up to 6 characters comprised of numbers and letters. This proposed system would decrease the maximum number of characters on a plate to no more than 5, making the plates easier for law enforcement officials and citizens to recognize.

Additionally, the legislation includes the use of existing and innovative technologies to illuminate the characters on license plates so that they can be more easily seen at night and in inclement weather conditions.

These proposed changes could significantly enhance the current Amber Alert System, creating plates that are easy to remember and identify during the day and at night.

The bill also allows for specialized symbols, either supplied by the registrar or developed by private charitable interests and approved by the registrar, to be incorporated into the plate design. Such specialized symbols could include a soccer ball, baseball, boat, etc. and would be available at an additional cost to the motorist.

Recognizing the importance of distinctive plates currently issued to veterans and those supporting a number of charitable causes, the bill grandfathered all plates issued pursuant to MGL Chapter 90, Section 2 and 2E. The bill would also preserve the registrar's ability to issue future plates in accordance with these existing provisions of law.

Grandfathered plates would include all of those issued to veterans and supporters of various charitable causes. Red Sox, Bruins, Right Whale, Cape Cod and the Islands and Trust for Children plates are all examples of those that would be exempted from further change.

Lombardi completes basic training

Army National Guard Pfc. Matthew J. Lombardi has graduated from basic combat train-

"This bill offers Massachusetts a system that has great benefits for all citizens and enhances public safety in the Bay State. By decreasing and simplifying the number of characters on a license plate it provides law enforcement officials and citizens with a plate design that is easier to see and remember," said Tarr the bill's author. He added, "I look forward to working with my colleagues in both the House and the Senate in the upcoming months to explore the potential benefits that this new concept has for our Commonwealth."

The legislation authorizes the registrar to complete a feasibility analysis of the proposed system, and, within ninety days of completing that analysis, initiate the process of designing the new plates. A five year period is prescribed by the bill for the full implementation of the new system.

Initial co-sponsors of the bill include Senator Stephen Brewer (D-Barre), Representative Anthony Verga (D-Gloucester), Representative Brad Hill (R-Ipswich), Representative Anne Gobi (D-Spencer), Representative John Keenan (D-Salem), Representative Todd Smola, (D-Palmer), Representative Ruth Balser (D-Newton), and Representative Kay Kahn (D-Newton).

and core values, physical fitness, and received instruction and practice in basic combat skills, military weapons, chemical warfare and bayonet training, drill and ceremony, marching, rifle marksmanship, armed and unarmed combat, map reading, field tactics, military courtesy, military justice system, basic first aid, foot marches, and field training exercises. Public Flu shot clinic scheduled at The Pines of Tewksbury

Maxim Health Systems is teaming with The Pines of Tewksbury to offer immunizations to those considered high risk by the Centers for Disease Control (CDC). With the health of the community at the utmost importance, a series of local clinics are scheduled on October 5th and October 19th at 2580 Main Street in Tewksbury, MA. In an effort to inoculate those with highest need of the vaccine first, all participants will be required to sign a questionnaire that attests to the fact that they are indeed at high risk. The CDC will later determine if other populations will be able to receive the flu shot this year.

The CDC defines "High-risk" as:

- Anyone 65 years of age or older
- Anyone with chronic medical problems or conditions that weaken the immune system
- Women who expect to be pregnant during flu season
- Residents of nursing homes and long-term care facilities
- Healthcare workers with direct patient care
- Out of Home Caregivers or Household contacts for Children less than 6 months of age.

Children six months to 18 years of age on longterm aspirin treatment

Note: Maxim Health Systems will vaccinate children over the age of 9 years that are classified as high risk. Parents of high risk children under the age of 9 are urged to contact their physician.

"Don't Dump on Massachusetts"

Residents call for a state plan that protects public health and the environment

Public meeting to be held in Wilmington on October 13th

Our state is facing a huge challenge right now in dealing with the 13 million tons of trash generated here every year. Unfortunately, our state officials have relied on burning trash in polluting incinerators, which release mercury, dioxin and lead into the air, or dumping trash in landfills which leak toxic chemicals into the groundwater and emit harmful fumes.

Instead, we need to focus on reducing, reusing and recycling waste.

Right now, state officials are working on a plan which will govern how we handle our growing trash problem for the next five years. In order to decide how to handle the state's growing waste problem, the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) is soliciting comments from the general public at a hearing in Wilmington. The hearing will be held at Wilmington Memorial Library, 175 Middlesex Avenue, from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Thursday, October 13th.

Toxics Action Center and other environmental/public health groups will be holding a press event a half hour before the hearing to commend the DEP for its efforts to protect public health and to encourage additional steps to protect both our health and the environment. Dozens of residents will share their thoughts about the state's future at the hearing.

Wilmington High School's Stephanie Parker commended

Mr. Eric Tracy, Principal of Wilmington High School, announced today that Stephanie Parker has been named a Commended Student in the 2006 National Merit Scholarship Program. A Letter of Commendation from the school and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented by the Principal to this scholastically talented senior.

About 34,000 Commended Students throughout the nation are being recognized for their exceptional academic promise. Although they will not continue in the 2006 competition for Merit Scholarship awards, Commended Students placed among the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the 2006 competition by taking the 2004 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT). A spokesperson for the National Merit Program commented, "It is important to acknowledge the attainments of academically talented students and to credit schools for the key role they play in their development. We hope the recognition received by these able young men and women who are commended in this rigorous, nationwide competition will encourage them to take advantage of opportunities for higher education and to diligently pursue their professional goals."

Tewksbury's favorite 'haunt' is back and better than ever!

The terror continues

Wilmington brother & sister team make Tewksbury scary

According to legend, the Livingston Street Terror is the former home of the Hatchers - a strange, reclusive couple rarely seen by neighbors. They moved into the home in 1981, and for two years, unusual sounds could be heard coming from the home, day and night.

By 1983, neighbors reported not seeing the couple for months, and observed mail piling up in the mailbox. A police investigation pursued, and although details of the incident could neither be verified nor denied, police found a horrific and terrifying scene when they entered the Hatcher House on that cool October evening.

It is unclear what happened in the days and years that followed. What is clear, however is that since 1999, visitors have been flocking to the site each October, right around the time of Halloween, to witness for themselves the terror.

Wilmington's Claire M. Schneider joins staff of Fred C. Church Insurance

LOWELL - Claire Schneider of Wilmington has joined the staff of the Andover office of Fred C. Church Insurance.

Schneider joins Fred C. Church as a Personal Lines Account Executive/Supervisor. She brings with her 27 years of insurance experience, is a licensed Property & Casualty and Life, Accident & Health Insurance Producer, and holds the Certified Insurance Counselor (CIC) and Certified Insurance Service Representative (CISR) designations.

Fred C. Church Insurance was founded in 1865. In addition to its Lowell headquarters, the company has locations in Andover, Chelmsford, Dracut, Littleton, Methuen, Tewksbury, and Woburn, Massachusetts, and in Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Debbie Dellascio, coordinator of the Livingston Street Terror has been involved in Halloween related events for some time. From 1993-1995 she and her brother Alan ran a haunted house out of their parent's basement in Wilmington. Unfortunately, the crowds destroyed the backyard and the basement. "It was wrecking the lawn," she said.

In 1996 they set up at Camp Forty Acres in Wilmington. Although the atmosphere was perfect for "haunting," the location wasn't the best for parking.

In 1997 they were at a farm in Loudon, NH, and by 1998 they made their way to Tewksbury. The first year at the Teen Center, and finally, at their present location.

Dellascio says her brother loves Halloween and horror movies, which she says is his motivation. Hers is slightly different.

"I definitely love the creative aspect of it," she says. Dellascio changes the scenes from year to year, and she loves to see the customers come out and enjoy it.

The non-profit event benefits the Tewksbury Teen Center and the Tewksbury Recreation Department. Dellascio has a dedicated staff of adults and teenagers who volunteer their time.

Dellascio says the ages that go through the house varies.

"It definitely depends on the kids," she says. She suggests at least five years of age, but also notes that some four year-olds are fine, but some twelve year-olds are not.

For the more "timid" crowd, a Family Fun Hayride and Kids Haunted Fun House may be just right to enjoy the festivities.

For the daring, Dellascio says that many people say the scariest part is the chainsaw. However, that's not her favorite part.

"My favorite part is the scene in the graveyard," she said, careful not to give anything away.

Once again, the haunted house and graveyard are all new for the 2005 season.

Livingston Street Terror is open Fridays and Saturdays from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. and Sundays 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. from now until October 30th. On October 9th and 30th extended hours will be held from 7:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. For more information go to <http://www.livingstonterror.com>

Brownie Pack #718 and the Boy Scouts were represented by Cub Scout Pack #361 from the United Methodist Church. The day's chores ended around 2:00 p.m. with workers bringing the collected trash back to the Whitefield School for disposal.

"The building community really came out in force to help out," Vivaldi said. "Their time and the equipment that they brought were instrumental to the success of the event."

The Wilmington Planning and Conservation Committee would like to let those who participated know that their efforts will have a direct impact on what people see as they pass through our town. Without these types of civic activities, Wilmington would not be able to keep its pristine beauty for coming generations. They extend their thanks for a job well done.

The Sons of Italy had an impressive turnout for their pasta dinner to benefit the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Anthony Cota, Rob Dicey, Arnie Aprile, Betty Aprile, and Charlie DeStefano worked hard to make sure everyone got a piping hot dish. (joebrownphotos.com)

West School reopens its doors

Historic Places. Still, there was no money for restoration.

State Representative Jim Miceli and State Senator Bruce Tarr went to work on that end of the project. They landed a state grant of $103,000. On Sunday, Miceli explained the odd number. If he had been put in for $100,000, he said, it would have been quickly shot down in the State House. But that extra $3000 made it look like he'd really done his homework. The appropriation went through.

The town enlisted help from Shawsheen Tech, and the schoolhouse again became a place of learning. Only this time, the students were learning carpentry and electrical work. Three of the students were on hand Sunday for the dedication, along with teachers and officials from the Tech.

The West last served as a schoolhouse in 1958. Sixteen people present on Sunday had gone to school there, and have memories of Mrs. Lena Eames, the last teacher at the school. They are: Thelma Shipley Palmer, Janet Collucci O'Connor, Lucille Morse Smalley, Slice Chisholm Shaffer, Kathleen Harrington Bell, Helen Calnan Carta, Bob Sweet, Francis Crispo, Walter Bristol, Sheryl Everett Mosca, Helen Lane Carver, Anne Pilcher, Mary Jane Harrington Coneaney, Sheila Harrington Tomase and John Crispo. Thomas Craig arrived late but brought with him a pencil and the New Beacon Reader, which had been given to him by Mrs. Eames in 1946.

Mrs. Eames had started her teaching career as Miss Lena Shaw at the South School on Chestnut Street in 1903, and taught until she married Alden Eames about 1910. She was away from teaching for a few years, and when she returned in 1926, it was at the West School. The Eames lived in the old Walker farmhouse, which was about 100 yards from the schoolhouse. She would occasionally take her pupils to the farm to see the animals. The farmhouse burned in 1951.

When Mrs. Eames retired at age 78, the school closed. She died in January 1971.

There is a photo spread from the Lowell Sun, May 13, 1951 that has been put up on the web by Bob O'Leary and Chuck Burns. It shows a typical day at the West School, and the many roles that Mrs. Eames had to fill. The URL for the web site is <http://chuckburns0.tripod.com/westschool/>. There is also a link in the web site for the Class of 1962. On that home page, look for a long list of links on the left side, and click on West School.

On the walls of the restored school are pictures of some of the classes that passed through the doors. There is also a picture of Caroline Swain, who taught in the Wilmington schools for many years, although not at the West. A separate photo display on the back wall shows the restoration work, and a framed opening shows the broken plaster and lath from before the Tech students began the project.

The restoration has given the school a fairly modern interior, in a style not inconsistent with the building. It is not presented as a schoolhouse. There are no blackboards or desks. There is a modern bathroom and kitchenette in the back of the school, making the building usable for contemporary functions.

Shawsheen Tech Superintendent Charles Lyons introduced three of the students who worked the project, Rich Doane and Aaron Stanton of Billerica and Jason Ciccarello of Burlington, and their teacher, Rich Weadick.

Other speakers were Sen. Bruce Tarr, Rep. Jim Miceli, Selectman Frank West and Town Manager Michael Caira, each of whom praised the work of the Historical Commission and the Shawsheen Tech students and faculty. Selectman West presented an ancient textbook to Harris as a memento.

Caira was introduced, but then stepped aside to allow Sen. Tarr to speak, explaining that he had to be last. At the conclusion of the ceremonies, Caira announced the unveiling of three plaques: one to Foster Balser, one to the Historical Commission and the third to the students of Shawsheen Tech.

Two of Foster Balser's children, Jay Balser and Ellen Kimble, took part in the unveiling. The Tech students and Historical Commission Chair Carolyn Harris also took part.

There has been no record compiled of teachers at the school, but one early teacher was Lizzie Harnden Carter, who taught at the school shortly after it was built.

Miss Lizzie Harnden began teaching there in 1879, when she was 21. Nearby was the farm of William Henry Carter. They were soon married, and she continued teaching. On extremely cold days, she would move the class to the Carter farmhouse, at the corner of Shawsheen Avenue and Bridge Lane.

William Henry Carter was sometimes referred to as Bill Hen Two, since there was another man in town with the same name.

Lizzie Harnden Carter died of tuberculosis on April 1, 1884. Thirteen months later, William Henry Carter married Clara Gowing. They had two children, one of who, Robert Carter, became highway superintendent for the town. Robert Carter's daughter, Christine Allard, was present at the dedication on Sunday.

Patty Ward, the retired town clerk, hopes find an old potbelied stove to place in the schoolhouse. She has asked people to watch for one.

'Me and My Friend Helping Autism'

When Debby and Mark Richard's son, Mark Daniel, stopped talking and no longer responded to any stimulus such as clapping or shouting, they thought their two year old son had gone deaf. Debby and Mark searched for answers at doctor after doctor to no avail. They were told not to compare their youngest son to their two older sons Matt and Mike. In their hearts, Debby and Mark knew something was wrong. After an ear infection, one pediatrician finally told them he agreed that further investigation was necessary. After extensive testing, Debby and Mark had their answer. Mark Daniel was diagnosed as a non-verbal autistic. That was thirteen years ago. Since that time, the Richard family has pulled together to make Mark Daniel's life as full as possible.

"It's very hard to watch your son be unaffected by Christmas or birthdays. He was seven years old before he could blow out a candle and ten before he knew how to unwrap a gift," then Debby chuckled, "but he sure caught on! Now we can't put presents under the tree until after he goes to bed on Christmas Eve because he unwraps them all!" Because Mark Daniel doesn't understand that it's not alright to be destructive, safety becomes a huge factor in day to day living.

Debby Richard shared, "There are so many safety issues that have to be dealt with when you have an autistic child. I don't think people understand just what the disease is. Windows have to be screwed shut and doors firmly secured with keys and then the keys have to be hidden. We called him Little Houdini because he could escape out of most anywhere."

Until Mark Daniel was eleven, Debby bathed her son, brushed his teeth and took care of his bathroom needs. Though every adjustment possible was made to their home to keep Mark Daniel safe, both Debby and her husband Mark knew that in order to give their son a chance in life, they would have to seek further professional assistance. Debby researched many facilities that catered to autistic children and finally found a school that fit Mark Daniels needs. The problem now was getting him in. The May Center in Chatham, MA has been honored by the U.S. Department of Education as a "School of Excellence." Getting in wasn't easy, because the demand for the school's services was high. They were rejected due to staffing issues the first time they applied. The school felt that due to the type of autism Mark Daniel had, he would require a great deal of one on one assistance. Debby patiently waited six months and tried again. This time she was successful.

"I remember the day we dropped Mark Daniel off at the May Center. All my husband and I wanted to do when we got home was to get in the car and go back and get him," said Debby. "It was very hard to leave my baby there but we both knew that it was the best thing for him. The Center has been responsible for doing wonderful things for our son."

The strain wasn't just on Debby and her husband, it also affected brothers Matt and Mike. Mark and Debby never let watching Mark Daniel become a burden to them. Day to day life was hard for the siblings because things that every other family just took for granted such as family vacations or even a simple trip to the movies, was out of the question.

"It was hard for them to have friends over. Sometimes Mark Daniel would throw things around and be destructive."

Instead of being resentful, older brothers Mike and Matt helped deal with Mark Daniel's day to day issues in a patient, loving manner. Even today, though Matt is 19 and Mike is 17, they still help when Mark Daniel comes home for weekend and vacation visits.

"When I was a child, I remember asking my mother what she would do if she had a child that was different," Debby said. "I asked her if she would still love it. She told me that she would love it more because the child would need her more. She also told me that God always gives special babies to special people. My husband and I made a perfect team for dealing with Mark Daniel. I have been so blessed with my sons."

Debby and her family received help along the way and that is why she has established Me and My Friend Helping Autism.

"There were so many places where I received help for my son," Debby said. "I would like to give back some of what we received. All monies earned from the fundraiser will be split between organizations such as Fidelity House that helped me fund a fence in my back yard to keep Mark Daniel from wandering off. I will also make a donation to the May Center so that they can keep up their wonderful work."

Mark Daniel is now fifteen and for the first time is learning to ride a bike. He has learned many of the daily skills he will need to survive. In addition to signing (standard sign language) which he caught onto at an incredible rate, Mark Daniel now is proficient at using Mayer Johnson picture icons. A little bigger than a wallet, it clips to a belt loop. On it are icons with various pictures which can be used to get desired objects or help in carrying out certain activities.

Debby is no stranger to fundraising. She was introduced to charity work by her mother Evelyn Sullivan's good friend, Pat O'Brien. Pat's daughter was the recipient of the first wish in the "Make a Wish" foundation. Debby and Evelyn always helped out with raffles, getting donations, managing money and selling tickets. Starting a fund raiser for autistic children just seemed like a natural thing to do.

The idea for Me and My Friend Helping Autism came from Mark Daniels friendship with another autistic boy from Wilmington named Mike Christerson. Their pictures will be on the posters seen around town promoting the event. Though the Richard family left Wilmington in 1999 and now reside in Methuen, the fundraiser will be held at the Knights of Columbus hall in Wilmington. Wilmington is where Debby grew up and is where she lived when Mark Daniel was born. Many family and friends have worked hard in assisting Debby and her mother Evelyn in getting the first of what they hope to be an annual event off the ground.

"I could have never done any of this without the love and support of my mother. She has been with me every step of the way," said Debby.

"There are so many people to thank, including everyone that has helped me through the years. When you have a child with special needs, it is difficult to keep a steady job due to time out. I've been lucky, my employers have been wonderful, especially everyone at Creative Hair Salon in Methuen where I've worked for the past two years."

Debby and her mother are hoping for a large turnout at the fundraiser. There will be a 50/50 raffle and, at last count, thirty seven baskets to be raffled off as well as a cord of seasoned wood (delivered) and a 20" flat screen TV. There will be a DJ, plenty of dancing and a cash bar.

The first annual Me and My Friend Helping Autism benefit will be held on Saturday, October 8th, from 7:00 p.m. to midnight. Tickets may be purchased at the Town Crier office, located at 104 Lowell Street in Wilmington. If you cannot join in the fun, but wish to make a donation, you can send a check, made payable to Me and My Friend Helping Autism and drop it or mail it to the Town Crier. Every dime will go toward helping autistic children and supporting the charities that assist the families of these very special children.

unveiled on Tuesday night depict two plans, one with a looped road consisting of 26 homes and the other a dead-end with two cul de sacs consisting of 28 homes.

Residents were concerned with the length of some of the driveways, at least one of which stretches to 300-feet.

The Wilmington Planning & Conservation Department did not receive a check from the developer in time to complete a peer traffic review for Tuesday night's meeting. The developer still has yet to give the department a check to cover a peer review of the environmental studies.

The conceptual plans did include some common driveways, shared by more than one residence, and a couple of lots consisting of slightly less than 20,000 square feet, which was in direct opposition of the Planning Board's prior comments. However, the Board felt that the developer had come a long way toward accommodating the Board's wishes.

The Board did not make any substantive decisions on the McDonald Road proposal during Tuesday's meeting, but the consensus of the Board preferred the looped road to the deadend.

The developer will next appear before the Planning Board on November 15th at 7:45 p.m.

Wilmington High's Zack Ungvarsky

Hole in one for senior golfer

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Zack Ungvarsky has already accomplished quite a lot in his young golf career. The Wilmington High senior can already look back on such accomplishments as leading the Wildcats to a perfect 12-0 regular season last year and a three way tie for the North Sectional title as well as individual accomplishments such as scoring 46 points by shooting a 1-under par 31 over nine holes earlier this season.

But one thing he had never accomplished, at least until last Thursday afternoon Hillview Country Club, was sinking a hole-in-one. That all changed on the second hole where Ungvarsky was part of a Football team cruises to 4-0 start

Wildcats chalk up 400 more yards and another win

By JAMIE POTE

NEWBURYPORT - For the third straight Friday night, the Wilmington High football team has surpassed 400 plus total yards of offense and held the opponents to basically nothing on the other side of the ball.

Wilmington stormed out to a 28-0 lead at the Newburyport Stadium and cruised to a 35-6 victory over the Clippers improving the team's record to 4-0 on the young season.

The Wildcats totaled 432 yards of offense including a dynamic performance from quarterback Joe Herra. He completed 9-of-10 pass attempts for 242 yards while tossing three touchdowns. He also rushed the ball four times for 62 yards with a score. Newburyport meanwhile could manage just 155 total yards of offense, but turned the ball over three times, which led to 21 Wildcats points.

In the last three games, Wilmington has outscored its opponents 117-12 and also hold an incredible edge of 1,289 to 296 in total yards.

"Newburyport was really loading up on the run against us and had eight guys in the box," said head coach Bob Almeida. "They were just really flying up on us trying to take the running game away. They did a nice job taking some things away from us that we do well."

Things didn't start so rosey for the road team. Both teams exchanged three-and-out series, before Newburyport strung together a 10-play, 45-yard drive moving the ball to the 'Cats 14. But on fourth down, an incomplete pass gave the 'Cats the ball and the game was over after that.

On the first play from scrimmage, Herra connected on a gorgeous bomb down deep down the field to a wide open Sean Murphy, who caught the ball in stride and went untouched for an 86-yard TD reception.

"I lined up as a tight end and I just ran my route," said Murphy. "You could kind of sense that there is no one around you but I was dying trying to get up to the ball and catch it. I just caught it and knew I had to go."

Said Almeida, "We got a real nice call by (assistant coach) Mike Barry on our first touchdown. We lined Murphy up as a tight end and were able to slide him open and he ran right by them. They never saw him release. We were real happy to take advantage of that."

From there the onslaught never stopped. After Stephen Downs pounced on a fumble at the 'Cats 13 yard line, Herra

Boys Soccer team wins second straight

Wildcats wax Sachems but miss polish

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Through the first 53 minutes of Tuesday afternoon's game, the Wilmington High boys soccer team dominated Pentucket Regional. The 'Cats led 2-0 with 27 minutes to go and were all over the Sachems, missing many opportunities to increase the lead.

Twenty two minutes later, Pentucket capitalized on Wilmington's inability to find the back of the net and cut the lead in half on a very sloppy defensive goal. Luckily, senior Steve Potcner bailed the 'Cats out by scoring his third goal of the game with three minutes left in the game giving Wilmington a 3-1 victory at Alumni Stadium.

Wilmington, which also defeated Lynnfield by the same 3-1 score in a make-up game played on Saturday, are now 3-2-1 overall and ride a slim two-game winning streak.

"It was a sloppy win," said head coach Steve Scanlon. "Coming off such a great win against Lynnfield, I expected more intensity but they did enough to win. But you have to put yourself in a position to finish teams off. You have to do it. If not you're going to have games when teams score late and grab a tie off you when they don't deserve it or they are going to upset when you shouldn't be."

"I thought we did some things well, but overall I thought it was sloppy and we lacked intensity."

Wilmington had numerous offensive chances in the first half but only put four shots on net. Senior PJ Russo had several bids coming down the right side of the field, while the 'Cats also didn't convert a shot on net on an indirect kick about ten yards out, while, they also held on to the ball too much, especially within the '18 yard box with golden chances to unleash a shot.

"We didn't shoot enough," said Scanlon. "But on Saturday we had 20 shots on net. Today when we had the judgement that we were going to walk right in the 6 (yard) box and blasts shots and get all of these pretty goals and it just doesn't happen."

"We a lot of chances early on and we had a chance to be up 2-0 or 3-0 before halftime and that's when you have to finish teams off and we didn't do it. It's something we have to learn and I think every team has to learn it."

"Last year we were the kind of team that had to battle for everything and we were never in a position to put teams away. We are very potent up front, so we need to learn how to put teams away."

Wilmington took a 1-0 half-time lead despite totally outplaying Pentucket. Potcner scored his first goal of the game with 12 minutes left of the half. Brian Wilson took a throw-in for the 'Cats just shy of midfield on the near bench side. The ball was sent long down the sideline and it skipped past a Pentucket defender's leg and onto the foot of Russo who was playing behind him. Russo moved quickly with the ball and darted a nice cross pass to the middle of the net and Potcner was there to head it home making it 1-0.

Russo made several great moves on a 1-on-1 battle but his shot was knocked out beautifully just minutes into the second half keeping it a one goal game.

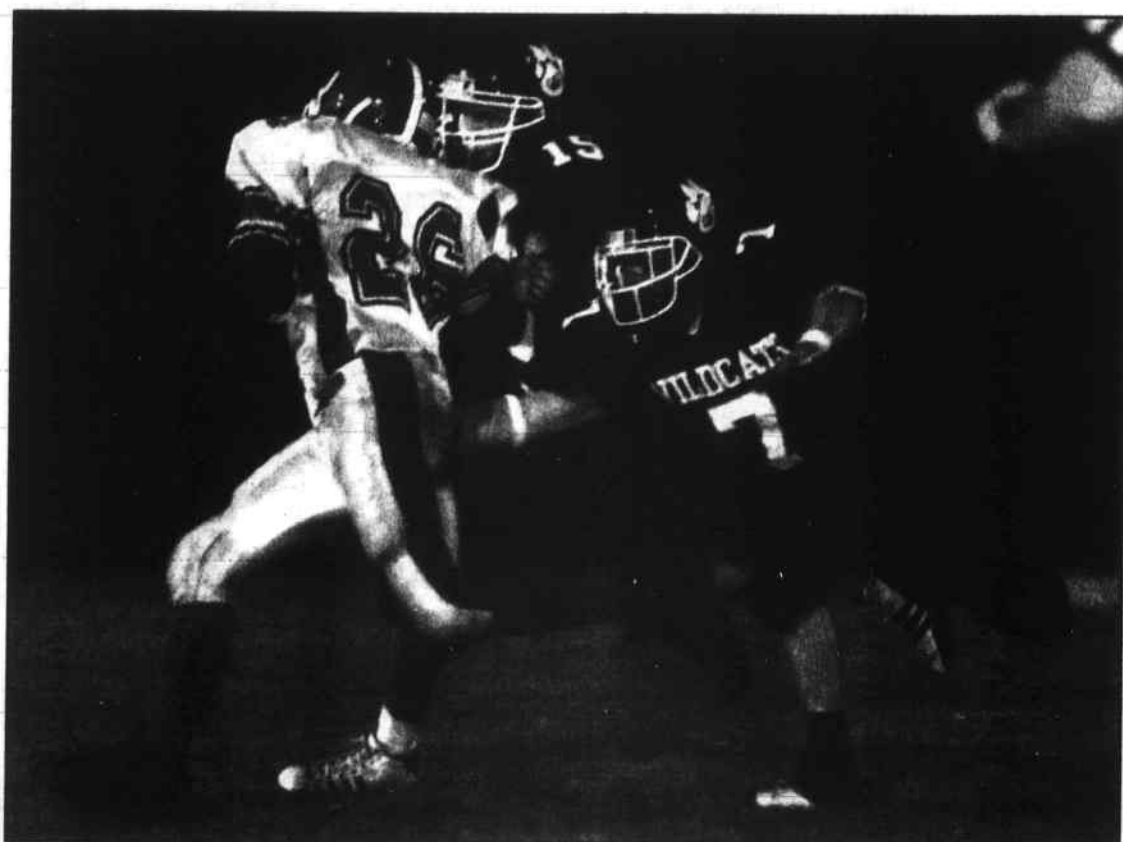

But with 27:22 to go, the 'Cats took a corner kick to the right of the Pentucket keeper. Nick Figueriredo lofted a high kick to the center of the net and against Potcner got a head on it for what became the game winning tally.

Pentucket scored an own goal with 5 minutes to go in the game as the ball bounced off legs and then eventually goalie Vinny Papageorgiou's (9 saves) hands and into the net cutting the lead in half.

But less than two minutes later, Mike Auciello beautifully sent Potcner through two defenders, and with great speed and foot work, he buried the goal to the low left corner giving the 'Cats a home victory.

On Saturday, Figueriredo scored two goals and added an assist to lead the way, while Potcner had the other and Russo had an assist. Papageorgiou made three saves for the win.

Wilmington will travel to North Andover on Friday and then host Hamilton-Wenham Monday morning at 10:00 am.

Herra tosses one for the ages

By JAMIE POTE

NEWBURYPORT - It's well known just how talented of an athlete Joe Herra is. Reining Cape Ann League Player of the Year, All-Scholastic by both Boston papers as a junior, and of course, the Town Crier's first non-senior selected as the Male Athlete of the Year, Herra has earned a long list of personal accomplishments. What he and his teammates did on Friday is certainly one for the ages.

In the Wildcats 35-6 thumping over an improved Newburyport team, Herra completed all but one pass, added TD toss numbers 7, 8 and 9 on the young season and also rushed the ball four times for 62 yards with one impressive score.

All in all on the night - which he came out just four plays into the fourth quarter - Herra completed 9-of-10 passes for 242

Top Ten Wilmington Coaches

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Round two of my six week columns, of the Top Ten Coaches I've covered in Wilmington since the spring season of 1993 (I did not put legendary track coach Frank Kelley in this column because I only covered his team for one season).

10). Sue Hendee, Girls Soccer:

Hendee has been on board since the program begun. She was a volunteer coach in 1987 under Steve Mader when it was founded, and then she took over the head coach's ranks in 1988 and has been on board ever since. During that time she has piled up almost 150 wins, including two league titles, and many trips to the state tournament.

She has coached a numerous amount of fantastic soccer players who have gone to the collegiate level, whether it be Danielle and Adrienne Fay, Erin McKenna, Lindsay Bruno and Rachele See at the top level such as Merrimack or Northeastern, or a handful of players who have done very well at Division 2 and 3 schools.

Hendee has been successful in both the Merrimack Valley Conference and the Cape Ann League and she's been successful in the state tournament over the last few years. I think Hendee has come along way in coaching especially dealing with personal.

I think now more than ever she's very strong in knowing the players strengths, and also knowing how to keep a team very strong through the good and the bad times. Her practices are very organized, and the drills are very creative, keeping everyone involved and improving upon skills.

The best part about Hendee is herself. Everything you want out of a student-athlete is taught by her in the right manner. She is always by the side of every player she coaches again during the good and bad times. She like Tewksbury coach Steve Levine have done so much for people off the field, that it doesn't do justice by saying it in several paragraphs. She's as loyal and as dedicated as they come.

"All of that came from my parents," she once said. "As an athlete and as a coach I try to keep the same standard. I expect that from my players. I want the kids and the team to have a good time. I want them to work hard, to show good sportsmanship, to be good teammates, to be good students, to be a model citizen on and off the field, and mostly just to have a positive experience."

9). Bob Almeida, Football:

Being named coach before the 1996 season, Almeida came to the program during interesting times. First, he was taken over a program who last had a .500 record in 1990. He was the program's third coach in four years, and knew nothing about Wilmington or the Cape Ann League after stops as a head and assistant coach in Belmont and Somerville to name a few. Since his arrival the program has sky rocketed. All he's done is win. He currently has an 81-22-1 record since arriving here, which includes one solo league title and three shares of it. During his tenure the team has come up with a handful of tremendous victories - many late fourth quarter thrillers, some wins in OT, and certainly he made his mark on Thanksgiving morning 1996 when he went full tilt against Tewksbury, who went on to win the Division 2A Super Bowl.

Almeida's hard work, dedication and organization is second to none. He's always very prepared for games, his practices are extremely tough and he always finds ways to improve on areas which need to be upgraded. I think he's surrounded himself with a tremendous assistant staff which truly has helped him become a very good coach.

Certainly there were times in the past when his teams were more talented than records showed, or teams fell in the big games or the offensive plays were as predictable as George Bush looking lost at his own press conference, Almeida has really strived as a head coach. Certainly there's a lot of talent on last year's and this year's teams but someone had to steer that talent in the right direction and since last year's season opener, Almeida couldn't have done a better job.

Last year the team went undefeated during the regular season and advanced to the playoffs for the first time since 1976 and right now they are off to a 4-0 start. And regardless of what division you play in, four league titles and a winning percentage of 79 percent in nine plus years is amazing.

8). Maureen Noone, former field hockey coach:

Normally I wouldn't put a coach on a list that had been here for two years, but when you consider her impact here and since she's left it's quite evident how good of a coach she is.

Noone took over a program in 1995 that had been a state contender for decades. Jan Cassidy-Wood held the job for 23 years and compiled a 223-43-52 record which included 10 Merrimack Valley Conference championships and two more shared. In 1994 her longtime assistant coach Jan Urquhart took over and she had a very successful season going 10-4-2 losing in the first round of the state tournament to North Andover.

The following year Noone was named with just several years of JV coaching under her belt. In 1995 the team finished with a 9-8-2 overall record and advanced to the state tournament losing in the first round to Georgetown.

The next season the team won the Cape Ann League and advanced to the state tournament after posting 12 regular season wins. In two seasons, she won 22 games, a league title and advanced to the state tournament twice.

Since she left and took the same position at Andover, the Wildcat program has not had a winning record, and advanced to the state tournament twice both because the team finished with exactly .500 records.

And since taking over the reigns at Andover, Noone has won the Merrimack Valley Conference four times, and has taken the team to the post season all but one season since 1997 and has compiled over 80 victories in just eight seasons which doesn't even count all of the regular season ties. In the past three years Andover has just three regular season losses.

Noone is one of the best field hockey coaches around for several obvious reasons: 1). She doesn't put up with any nonsense; 2). She teaches the players skills as best as anyone; 3). She's very demanding and gets the most out of every player she comes across.

Since I actually never covered any of Cassidy-Woods' games or teams, Noone is by far the best female coach I've seen at Wilmington High School.

7). Mike Pimental, wrestling coach:

Along with Coach Almeida, it's hard to imagine another coach than Pimental who came into a program and totally turned it into a contender every year. Prior to Pimental's arrival, the program was lucky if it could fill every weight class in a dual meet, lucky if it won three matches a season and never had a state champion.

Since he's come on board, Pimental just reached the 100-win plateau in his 9th season, while he's been on the mat while Billy Tate, Pat Heffernan, Marc Sollazzo, Derek Hanley (twice) and Roman Walsh have all been crowned Division 3 state champions, and Hanley also grabbing the school's first ever all-state championship title. How's that for a complete turnaround?

Over the course of Pimental running the show, his teams have finished with the best showings it ever has at league, sectional, state and all-state tournaments. Every year this team can be counted for 15 victories and 6 or 7 wrestlers competing at the state meet.

Pimental makes sure that his wrestlers put everything they have into every practice or every meet, because he knows how high the stakes are for his program after the bar was raised way back when he came to it. He arrived a year earlier than Almeida when school spirit and lack of respect in the athletic department was not at a premium. Pimental has a lot of fun, works his tail off and makes sure his wrestlers are complete gentlemen on and off the mat.

6). Al Fessenden, former golf coach:

You may object to what instruction may be involved in the game of golf, since coaches are not allowed to be out on the greens giving advice, but Fessenden's numbers are through the roof and certainly his success was incredible.

In 20 years on the job, his teams combined to go 116-28-9, which included a Division 3 state championship in 2000, two Division 3 North sectional titles in 2001 and '03, five Cape Ann League titles, and a 12-0 record last fall.

Fessenden was surely blessed with talented kids such as the Velardos and the Ungvaskys, but to become a complete team in golf you're second tier golfers are as important if not more important than the number one and two guys, and Fessenden always came up with a strong core of guys to add that support and make league championships and success possible.

Always supporting kids by supplying story ideas, pictures of them and anything you needed, Fessenden was top notch when it came to helping his golfers any way he could.

5). Bob Cripps, track coach:

Inducted into the high school's Hall of Fame a year ago, Cripps is most known for his relay teams, his success and driving his kids to be the best with the worst possible workouts to be imagined.

He began as a long time assistant coach under Frank Kelley, which included the state championship in spring track in 1974. The two worked together for over 20 years and Cripps took over the track programs in the mid 90s. He is now coaching the boys winter and spring track teams and continues to have success.

Just in the past five or six years, he watched Chris Murray and Matt Kacamburas take state titles in the mile and two mile, respectively, not to mention great success with a handful of relay teams.

Before those guys came around, Cripps' is really known for his work with the 1993 indoor 4x400 relay team consisting of Tom Aprile, Tom Killalea, Tom Zaya, Dennis Godin and Danny Ballou, who notched the fourth best time in the entire country, as well as a dramatic finish at the all-state championship meet surpassing the Brockton team from behind.

On top of that Cripps had tremendous success with Greg Young, another one of the state's best runners of the past 12 years.

4). Jim McCune, Boys Basketball:

Jim McCune is first a tremendous person with a huge heart and a lot of fun to be around, and secondly of the most respected coaches in the state. You ask other coaches, not even from the CAL, or other sports-writers from various newspapers, and they will rave about how fortunate the boys basketball program is to have McCune on its bench.

As a coach, he's demanding and he's very knowledgeable. Perhaps his two biggest strengths are the adjustments he makes during games and seasons, and knowing all the ins and outs of every one of his players and certainly every single player he opposes. His scouting, preparation and X's and O's are second to none.

If you consider all of the tremendous wins this program has had over the years, that should alone put him up there with the best - beating North Cambridge Catholic was one of the biggest and most thrilling basketball games I've ever seen and frankly the 'Cats won that game because McCune held a 100-1 edge in the coaching department.

But then if you look at his accomplishments - 194-152 at WHS (over 300 wins in his coaching career) with four straight CAL titles and six in all, as well as two Division 3 sectional final runner-up trophies - it's pretty simple to realize that he's a winner plain and simple.

3). Steve Scanlon, Boys Hockey & Boys Soccer:

Along with McCune, I believe these are the top two coaches in the program but the edge goes to Scanlon because he does it in two sports. The best way to describe Scanlon is he gets kids to play for him. Extremely, extremely knowledgeable, if Scanlon gets the right kids who work hard, who believe in the system, they will not only become very good hockey and soccer players, but will win, and most certainly have a ton of laughs.

He like McCune is successful because he does his homework. He knows the strengths and weaknesses of his own roster up and down and opposing rosters which is so crucial, especially in hockey.

As a hockey coach, he turned the program around. It started with some late success in the MVC league and since 1995 the team has qualified for the state tournament each and every year until this past season. During that run, the team went to the sectional championship game losing to Saugus, who only had two scholarship players on the roster. Wilmington, though, held them in check until several empty net goals late in the game.

Scanlon - who has won six league titles including four in a row and surpassed the 150 win plateau recently - has enjoyed countless number of big tournament wins against teams such as Winthrop and Masconomet and have gone toe to toe with St. Mary's of Lynn, Duxbury, Saugus and Danvers over the years.

On the soccer field, he's arguably a better coach. Before coming to WHS, he coached at Westford Academy and won a Division 2 state championship and two sectional titles. Then he came on board replacing his father Dick as the coach of the Wildcat team and the program hasn't missed a beat with several great deep runs in the state tournament including posting several impressive tourney wins in both the '02 and '03 seasons. Scanlon's set plays are very creative and certainly have work to the team's benefit.

2). Dick Scanlon, former boys soccer and baseball coach:

When you win 300 games as a baseball coach and you take two teams, baseball and soccer, to the Eastern Mass championship game during one school year, you are a tremendous coach. Scanlon had a unique style where he would win because he would press the right buttons in terms of strategy, in terms of dealing with kids and like his son, getting the most out of each of them.

In all due respect Wilmington soccer players are not blessed with the best skill. But with Scanlon, he turned that lack of skill into winning teams because he knew the strengths of his players and adapted very well.

Scanlon took the 1990 and 1997 soccer teams to the Eastern Mass final losing both times to Medway, arguably the most successful soccer program in the entire state. He also took the 1998 team to the state championship game, losing to Gateway Regional.

On the baseball field, Dick could easily be compared to legendary Yankee manager Joe Torre. You may scratch your head at some moves but then when it's all said and done when the team needs a big hit, a big out, a come from behind win, a league title or a big tournament victory, Scanlon is there smiling and cracking a joke enjoying it all.

1). Paul Lyman, former softball coach:

In high school softball, you can get by with a great battery and plug in the other positions, but if you have a brilliant coach, that's all the difference in the world. And Paul Lyman was that difference during his tenure here at WHS.

He began coaching in 1990 and while in the Merrimack Valley Conference, he turned the program around instantly. His early teams did well and qualified for the state tournament but it wasn't until the magical 1993 season when the program became a state contender and has been there ever since. That season, Lyman had the toughest chore of them all. He had a complete mixture of players. On one hand was a group of seniors and on the other hand was a very talented group of freshmen and sophomores. Somehow, with great help from captains Kerri Bowlby and Nicole Ouellette, the chemistry was blended together and the team was phenomenal from the start to the finish.

The 1993 club went on to win the program's first ever Division 2 state championship with a 6-3 victory over Mount Greylock Regional, who has gone to the final almost every year coming from the West.

The following year, still in the gruesome MVC and feeling all the pressure of being the reigning state champions, the team did it again. They advanced all the way to the final and once again defeated Mt. Greylock in the final, and more known as the play as the combination of Leanne Harris and Lisa Southmayd ended the game with an exciting double play at the plate throwing out what would have been a tying run in the thrilling 6-5 victory giving the program its second Division 2 state title.

Besides those two years, Lyman had many deeps who enjoyed state tournament runs. The 1996 team advanced to the North sectional final, while he also saw a handful of players who were all-scholastics and also play in the collegiate level, including Judy O'Connell, who went on to help Merrimack College win a national title.

Lyman was successful because he always made practices, games and tight situations enjoyable so players relaxed, enjoyed themselves and performed because he never made it into something it didn't need to be. I've never ever seen a coach teach fundamentals better than Paul Lyman.

Lyman was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame and four years ago he resigned to take the same position at Bishop Fenwick and has that program back to a state contender each year in Division 1.

Former WHS Golf coach won a state title and two sectional titles during his 20 year tenure, and ranks sixth on the top ten list of coaches.

Field Hockey team sticks by league power

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Facing a perennial state contender in Manchester-Essex is never easy. But with a very young and inexperienced team that has just one win, well that's another story.

But for the Wilmington High field hockey team, they walked off the field on Friday afternoon with a 2-0 defeat but played arguably the best game all season.

After a disappointing 4-0 loss to a much less talented Georgetown team two days earlier, second year head coach Carol Mutchler was thrilled with what she witnessed on the Alumni Stadium grass.

"This was good," she said. "We played very strong today. Manchester is always one of the better teams in the league and always in the state tournament. They are always a very strong team to go up against. Given the fact that they have only lost one game this season, I thought we played particularly well."

Wilmington also fell to Lynnfield on Monday afternoon, 3-0, bringing the team's overall record to 1-9. Manchester-Essex improved to 5-1-3.

"I don't understand the girls," said Mutchler. "It seems like whenever we play a team that's more difficult, they rise to the occasion and get up for it more and they really play well. Today I can't fault them for anything because I thought as a team they played very well."

Wilmington had a strong chance to score its second goal of the season just seven minutes into the game. Senior captain Katelyn Roberts took a free hit which bounced right through the crease but the ball bounced over sticks on the right side of the net.

Manchester scored a goal in each half as Marley Foye netted both tallies, both coming with seven minutes to go in each half.

Wilmington goalie Katelyn McGrath made 12 saves and played well stopping several tough shots in the crease, especially a few minutes before Manchester's first goal.

"I really think we've had some girls who have improved and I think the team has improved a lot since the start of the season," said Mutchler. "We have some forwards, Rachel Haggerty, and she's just a sophomore and she had really come on. She's much more aggressive. She's a quiet kid so we need her to come out a little bit more. Shiloh Bramante Cohen has really come on in the middle.

"Just a couple of them if I can get them to stop backing off the ball - one of them will miss it and stop going for it thinking someone else will go for it, so I'd like to see them continue on the play and give it another poke or two. If I can get that out of them this year I think eventually it'll pay off."

"Like I said to the girls that today's score doesn't indicate how well we played. And I also think our record, on some occasions, doesn't reflect how we have played. On some occasions. In all fairness we didn't play well against Georgetown but we played very well today. I don't mind if we lose but if the girls improve which they have, then the wins will come. I don't want teams to come in here to our field and walk all over us."

A tremendous sign of improvement came as Manchester had 18 corners in the game and didn't score one goal which is truly an amazing stat.

"The girls have done a nice job with that," said Mutchler. "We have been working on that in practice and they have done a better job getting the ball out of our end."

Roberts breathes easier on back line

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Watching Katelyn Roberts on the field, you would never notice that she is asthmatic, and that she was a member of the JV team last year.

"I think she's been outstanding," said Wilmington High field hockey coach Carol Mutchler. "I think she's been huge progress since not only the start of the year but from last year to this year. She played at the JV level last year. When she came to us this year she was all over the ball. She had this long, beautiful drive and I said to her 'did I miss something last year?' And she said 'no I bought the right equipment and I really practiced every day because I wanted to get better'."

"The right equipment became the proper breathing elements. (My asthma) got really bad last year (so now) I'm on two prescription inhalers," said Roberts. "It's tough but if I use them a half hour before a game I'm OK. It doesn't really limit me, on distance, it's more sprints. When I go quick to a ball I feel like my lungs are holding me back. It helps me playing defense because when I play forward I feel like it's holding me back."

"Last year playing on JV with troubles with consistency of and the other team scores on you, you're like 'oh no that was my fault'."

On Friday Roberts and the rest of the team played very well despite losing 2-0 to perennial Cape Ann League power Manchester-Essex. Despite 18 corners and 14 shots on net, Roberts and company did pretty well keeping the Hornets from storming the net.

"We played well," she said. "We all played together and we stepped it up knowing that they are a good team. I didn't think we would do as well as we did but we did and pulled it off."

After the Manchester loss, the 'Cats were also defeated on Monday by Lynnfield to fall to 1-9 on the season. Roberts says the poor record hasn't taken anything away from the enjoyable season.

"We do a lot of stuff (off the field) together," she said. "We hang out, we go to dinners together and we try to stay as close as we can. We try to be friends first more than teammates because I feel that if you're friends first then you'll play together much better."

"I've been on teams that have been segregated with different sections or clicks and I didn't want that with our team because I feel like those teams don't do as well."

And watching Katelyn Roberts play, you do notice that she's a captain.

"I think that says a lot about the respect she has from her peers that she was elected captain of the varsity team, while being on the JV team last year," said Mutchler.

WHS Cross Country

Record numbers at Monday's meet

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

On one hand you could take the scores and say 'wow that wasn't so good' and on the other hand, you can take the times and say 'wow that was very impressive'. So now the questions remain if the glass is half full or half empty?

The Wilmington High boys and girls cross country teams lost all three of its meets this past week. The boys are now 1-6 after losing 15-50 to North Andover last Wednesday and then 16-43 to Pentucket and 15-50 to Masconomet in a home tri-meet on Monday.

The girls fell to 0-7 on the season with a 16-43 loss to North Andover, and then 18-45 and 18-43 losses to Masconomet and Pentucket, respectively.

"We got absolutely killed by the scores of the meets but if you look at the times we ran pretty well," said coach Tom Bradley.

The boys ran into two very good teams on Monday as the top two finishers broke last year's course record set by former outstanding Wildcat runner Chris Murray with a 16:28 time.

Wilmington's top runner was Tom Miele who came across play, and being able to keep up the pace of the others was something she knew she really had to work on in order to make the Big Club one time before graduating.

"I did a lot of work over the summer," said Roberts. "I worked hard the summer before but not nearly as hard as I did this past summer. I knew what I had to focus on. I had to get my drive going. I concentrated on getting my drives lower and my stickhandling."

That hard work truly has paid off. Roberts started the season out in the midfield but was switched to the backfield along with fellow captains Jackie Moran and Kelly Moran and the adjustments have worked. Roberts looks very strong on the backline whether it's defending forwards, strong drives up the field, or clearing the ball out off corners.

"I played defense my freshman year and then my sophomore and junior years I played forward and midfield to it wasn't that tough to adjust too," she said. "I do like playing defense because when you're a forward

Cliff Lord helps set record setting golf fundraiser

Dave Stella, of Southbridge; Joe Moscato, of Amesbury; Cliff Lord, of Wilmington; and Mike Balcom, of Sturbridge, were at the International Golf Club in Bolton, Mass. on Monday, Sept. 12 when Jimmy Fund Golf presented $5.4 million to the Jimmy Fund. The group was among the 300 golfers who were invited to play in the Jimmy Fund Classic, a celebration of the record-setting fundraising year for Jimmy Fund Golf. Participants were the organizers and sponsors of the most successful of the 150 events that make up Jimmy Fund Golf. Over the past 23 years, the charity golf organization has raised $47.4 million for life-saving cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through its Jimmy Fund. Jimmy Fund Golf sponsors include Top-Flite, Dunkin' Donuts, American Airlines, and Community Newspaper Company. To learn how to host, sponsor, or participate in a Jimmy Fund Golf event, visit www.jimmyfund.org/golf.

Volleyball team falls to Redmen

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

At the start of the season the teams were in opposite directions. Wilmington was coming off a strong season in '04 going to the Division 3 North sectional semi-finals losing to league foe North Reading. Tewksbury, on the other hand, was coming off an 0-20 season.

After Tuesday afternoon's second nonleague match-up, it appears the two teams are switching ends of that preseason spectrum. Tewksbury defeated Wilmington, 3-1, avenging an earlier loss to the 'Cats.

That win puts the team at 2-7 overall, while Wilmington falls to 4-6 and in a very tough spot of trying to qualify for the state tournament for the fifth straight season.

Tewksbury came out very strong winning the first set 25-13 and went up 2-0 with a 25-22 win before Wilmington with the third match by two at 25-23. Tewksbury then put the game away with a 25-21 fourth set win and the team celebrated its first home victory since the 2001 season.

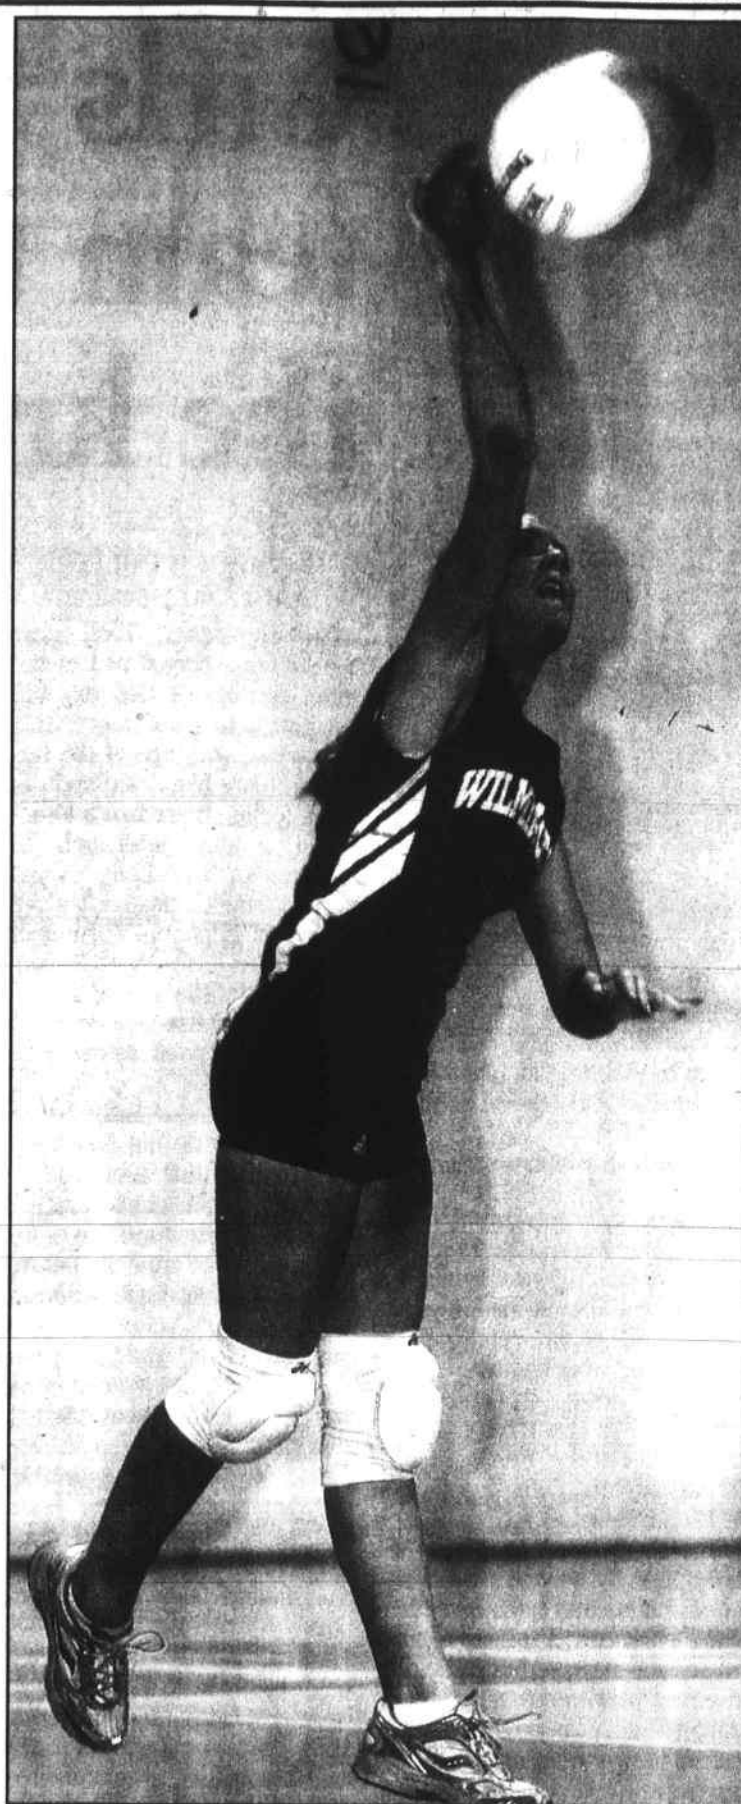

Lady Redmen Head coach Kerry Lane was not at Tuesday's game because she gave birth to a child last Thursday, but former head coach Nancy Dumond, who has been helping the team out all season, said this program is turning around.

"We played Chelmsford earlier and it was our best game all season," said Dumond. "Even though we lost the girls played so well and I think they realized after that game that they could do this and could get it together and they certainly have since then. Since then everyone has played together so well and it really opened their eyes of what could happen."

Dumond gave a lot of credit to several players, starting with Vicky Wong, who had 9 kills. Jilisa Rawding had 10 aces and Corrina Barberian chipped in with 7 aces.

"One of my pet peeves is serving and I told the girls they all had to step up in that area and we were not going to fault there giving (Wilmington) points," said Dumond. "Vicky was phenomenal as always. I can't figure out if she's better at hitting the ball, setting the ball or defensively because she's just so versatile and good at everything. Jilisa and Corrina also were great serving."

"Meredith Hill, we thought would be out injured and we had brought up a girl from the JV team but before the game started Meredith said she would play. She has a bad bruise on her ankle and she played great with three big blocks."

Earlier this week, Tewksbury was defeated by Haverhill 3-1 and to Lowell 3-2 (25-13, 16-25, 25-19 and 15-5).

Wilmington on the other hand seems to have taken several steps back and this loss could be very critical come crunch time.

"I really don't know what happened to be honest," said coach Mark Staffier. "We just weren't there. We didn't come ready to play. I don't know if we thought that Tewksbury wouldn't be as good as they are, but for whatever reason we didn't play well. This loss hurts us as we try to get into the state tournament. We're 4-6 now and that's a big difference (of being 5-5) because our opponents are going to get tougher and tougher."

Wilmington has eight matches left with four against teams that have already defeated them in North Reading, Lynnfield, North Andover and Hamilton-Wenham. They also will face Melrose, Lexington and Burlington (who have two boys on the team) for the first time and Masconomet who they did defeat earlier this season.

"I hope this is a funk and we get out of it right away because we have little time to pull this out," said Staffier. "We have a pretty tough road ahead."

Staffier pointed out that co-captain Megan Godding played well in the loss, but said he needs more from the rest of the team to get back on track.

"Our passing and hitting has been hot and cold so we need to be more consistent," he said. "The defense I think is the biggest problem. We just lack floor movement and I'm hoping the seniors can be leaders and help the rest of the team get out of this funk. We're either losing or just getting by to win."

Tewksbury faced Andover on Wednesday at home and travel to Methuen on Friday and then North Reading and Methuen on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

Wilmington travels to Melrose on Friday and will host Burlington on Tuesday beginning at 4:00 pm.

fundraiser for Wilmington High with the Wilmington School Business Partnership.

On the par three, 135-yard hole, Ungvasky took out his pitching wedge and launched a shot right at the pin. The ball landed just past the hole and spun right back in for the first ace of his career.

"I just put my hands up in the air and looked around at everybody that was with me," Ungvasky said. "I just couldn't believe it. Everybody was congratulating me and there were high fives all around."

The circumstances of the hole-in-one are almost as unique as the shot itself. Competitors in the tournament were competing in a best ball style competition, where the best shot by a member of a group is the ball that is played by all members of the group. For an additional $10 contribution however, a group could have a member of the Wildcat golf team take a shot for them and use that shot instead.

When the group of David Spurr, John Bonish, Gerry Thibault and Scott Garratt approached the second hole, which due the shotgun start would be their last hole, they were 10 under par and having great rounds of their own. But they still decided to refer to Ungvasky and they were rewarded with the shot of a lifetime.

Making the shot even more impressive was that Ungvasky had been working at the par five 8th hole for most of the day when he was driving the ball as far as he could. Once he was done there he moved over to the second hole began adjusting to the much shorter distance.

"I had my drive stroke going and I went over to the second hole just to hang with some of the kids, so my first couple of shots from there were pretty ugly," Ungvasky said. "They

The hole-in-one may have taken Ungvasky as well as everyone else by surprise, but his talent as a golfer hardly surprises anyone anymore. If anything, teammates and opponents alike throughout the Cape Ann League have come to expect amazing performance from Ungvasky.

"He's Mr. Consistency," said Wildcat coach Mike Rowinski. "Even when he has a bad round he finishes second and that has only happened once this year. The round he shot a couple of weeks ago when he scored 46 points was the most amazing that I have seen."

And Ungvasky is looking to post days like that on a regular basis. He had a great season last year, but this year he has stepped up a game a notch. Although he is humble about his success he is aware of just how well he is playing and he takes pride in the fact that he made himself better through hard work.

"There is no doubt that I am playing the best golf of my life from about late June until now," Ungvasky said. "During the summer I was out in five or six hours a day practicing. It is a hard days work, but it got me where I am now. There are still a lot of strokes to shave off, but I think I can do it."

His coach agrees.

"He's going to the University of Hartford which is probably the premier golf school in New England," Rowinski said. "He has a great future in this game."

Whatever the future brings, and it may very well include more hole-in-ones, it will be hard top the memory of his first.

"I kept the ball (a Pro-V # 4) and the tee, and put them downstairs by my bed," Ungvasky said. "I am holding on to those."

were the second to last group to go through and I had taken about five shots from there at that point, none of which were very good."

But this one was more than just very good, it was amazing. And to think, Ungvasky doesn't usually fare very well at the second hole, whether it be in tournament play or in practice.

"Honestly I don't like that hole," Ungvasky said. "I will come away with a par, but I rarely get a birdie and I certainly have never gotten the ball in. I think it was the first time I played the hole well."

Big win for golf team

Sports Correspondent

With a 4-5 record heading into Monday's match against Newburyport at Hillview Country Club, the Wilmington High golf team was in desperate need of a win to keep their state tournament hopes alive.

Fortunately for the Wildcats they got just what they needed from the top of their lineup on their way to a 151-138 Cape Ann League victory to even their record at 5-5. The Wildcats were led by senior Zack Ungvasky's 38 points, along with 34 points from Jason Evans and 30 points from Jeff Youngclaus.

"This was a big win for us today," Wilmington coach Mike Rowinski said. "We actually had a couple of kids out for various reasons and we had to sub some people in, but the kids we put in really stepped up."

Evans was chief among those who stepped up for the Wildcats, as his 34 points represented a season high. He has had a good year for the Wildcats, averaging in the mid-20's for points all season, but this performance was special.

"That is what I thought Jason was capable of all season and he got it done today," Rowinski said.

Equally as important were Youngclaus, 30 points from the number three position.

"Jeff has struggled at times this season, but putting up 30 today was huge for us," Rowinski said. "It's the first time all year we have had all three of these guys over 30 points."

Ungvasky's performance was not at all surprising, considering the way he has played all season. That being said, his coach was still pleased to see his senior captain turn in his typical point total to help lead the team to victory.

"Zack played well as usual. That's been the case all year for us," Rowinski said. "I have said it before and I will say it again that he is the best player in the league and I think that is the consensus throughout the league."

As dominant as the top half of the Wildcats lineup was, it may have been the performance of the lower half of the lineup that was the key to the victory. Senior Joe Dimare filled in for an injured Alex Meralto and came through with an 18-17 victory, while Brandon Sheehan also played well.

"Joe did a great job for us, and so did Sheehan," Rowinski said. "He did not win, but he stayed close at 22-18 and that is huge for us at the bottom of the lineup."

The Wildcats will host Lynnfield on Thursday afternoon and follow that up with a makeup of last Thursday's rained out match against Triton on Friday. They must win just one of two in order to qualify for the tournament, once again proving the importance of the big win against Newburyport.

"It gets us back in the hunt. We only need to win one, but hopefully we win both," Rowinski said. "If we get production throughout our lineup we can play with anybody in the league."

Girls soccer team ends in deadlock

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

With just one win in its first six games, the two-time defending Cape Ann League champion Wilmington girls soccer team had a golden chance to double that win amount on Tuesday night but let one slip through their fingers. Pentucket scored a goal with five minutes to go in the game and walked off Alumni Stadium with a 1-1 tie.

Wilmington is now 1-5-1 overall while Pentucket goes to 3-2-3.

"(The late goal by Pentucket) did hurt because I thought we carried most of the play," said Wildcat coach Sue Hendee. "They're good. You have to respect their speed. They have some fast forwards who are tough to defend. I thought the defense did a very good job. Taylor Duffy played very well - I thought it was her best game this season. (And so did) Kat (Strazzera who is on defense temporarily to mark up players on North Reading and Pentucket who are among the league's leading scorers)."

While the record may indicate that the team is struggling, especially since the team hasn't won since the opening game of the season, Hendee believes the opposite.

"This is a game we would have liked to have had," she said. "And it does put a lot of pressure on us. We've played North Reading twice who is undefeated, we lost to Lynnfield who has lost just one game, we split with Masconomet and they are doing really well and we also lost to Newburyport who is 9-0. We have played the top teams in the league."

Just inside 13 minutes into the game, Wilmington got on the scoreboard. Junior Brienne Bozzella gave a nice heads up pass down the right sidelines to senior Alicia M. ay, who turned inside and unleashed a hard shot to the far left corner giving the 'Cats a 1-0 lead.

The score remained the same at the halftime break and Bozzella almost made it a two-goal game but her shot early in the second half nailed the top cross bar.

But with five minutes to go in the game, Pentucket's Courtney Spurr gave a quick flip pass to teammate Colleen Liffers who chipped it home to tie the game at one.

Wilmington netminders Ashley Poirier (5 saves) and Alyssa Browne (3 saves) split the duties in net and played well. Duffy controlled the defense and played extremely well and has really improved, while she certainly doesn't leave anything on the field during games.

"There were a couple of weeks where we weren't playing well but now we are playing well," said Hendee. "We have new faces and it takes a while to get comfortable with one another and I think that's starting to happen. They're playing better and it'll come but we need to score more goals."

Wilmington will host North Andover on Friday afternoon at 3:45 at the Shawsheen Elementary School.

Squirt A's continue fast pace hockey

The Wilmington Squirt A team continued its fine play last week-end even though they came out on the short end in one of their two games, a 3-2 loss to a strong Wakefield team in a Valley League tilt at Ristuccia arena.

Wakefield jumped out to a 2-0 1st period lead but the Wildcats clawed their way back into it when Tommy Townsend set up Nick DiStefano for a goal to cut it to 2-1 midway thru the 2nd period. Wakefield then scored one of those back breaking "last minute of a period" goals to make it a 3-1 game after 2.

Once again the Cats fought back though when Dillon DiNatale scored an unassisted goal early in the 3rd. Back and forth the game would go with both goalies making several outstanding saves.

Wilmington's Drew Foley was once again superlative between the pipes. The Wildcats fought hard to the end but couldn't get the equalizer as Wakefield prevailed 3-2.

Earlier that same day the team traveled up to Skate 3 in Tyngsboro to take on Lexington/Bedford in the Dual State League. After a sluggish 1st period Wilmington woke up and took care of business playing two strong periods en route to a 6-3 triumph. After spotting L/B a 1-0 lead Zack Blanch took a pass from Dylan DiNatale and rifled one home to tie it up. Early in the 2nd the Cats struck twice within a minute.

This time Blanch set up DiNatale who lit the lamp for a 2-1 lead, then Nick DiStefano crashed the net to jam home a Brooks Carter rebound for a 3-1 lead. L/B roared back with 2 of their own to tie things up at 3 but then the red hot Blanch struck again. This time he was set up by a nice Mike DiOrio pass which gave Wilmington a 4-3 lead after two periods.

L/B fired everything they had at goalie Drew Foley as the 3rd period opened but nothing would get past the solid goaltender as he flashed his glove, pads, stick, blocker, mask, skates, and everything else he could think of to keep the puck out of the net. Wilmington finally put the game out of reach when Steve Ciampa scored twice on the same shift, with 4 minutes to go.

The first one was set up by some nifty passes from Tommy Townsend and Nick DiStefano, and the 2nd was a nice backhander off a rebound of a Cody McGowan blast. That made it a 6-3 game and would hold up to be the final.

Defensively for Wilmington, steady Dan Luise led the way with his usual spirited play back on the blue line. Mike DiOrio and Brooks Carter played their usual rock solid games in front of Drew Foley. Also, hats off to forward Michelle Alonardo who took her turn on defense for this one and played very well back on D.

Two others who played good 2 way games for the Cats were Kevin Meuse and Matt DiOrio, both of whom stopped quality L/B scoring chances with hustling back checking.

Rams take care of business

By MIKE IPPOLITO

MANCHESTER -- If the Shawsheen Tech football team was feeling any emotional hangover from their heart-breaking five overtime loss to Whittier Tech in their previous game, they certainly did not show it on Friday night when they took on Manchester-Essex in a CAC cross divisional clash, as the Rams rolled to a 44-18 victory over the undermanned Hornets.

Of course, helping the Rams get over any hangover they might have felt was the fact that they were taking on a Manchester team that had only six seniors on their roster to begin with, and were missing both of their team captains due to injury.

But the bottom line is the Rams did not get caught up in what could certainly be described as a trap game, with the Whittier game in their rear view mirror and a key CAC clash against Minuteman on the horizon for this weekend. They took care of business and they did it in a big way, improving their record to 3-1 on the season.

Shawsheen controlled the game from the start, holding leads of 24-0 at the end of one quarter, 38-0 at the half and 44-0 after the first play of the third quarter.

The Rams dominated in every facet of the game, and the domination was immediately in evidence just two minutes into the contest. The Rams defense held Manchester to a three and out on their first possession and Tewksbury resident Ken Aalerud returned the ensuing punt 50 yards for the first score of the game with 8:51 left in the first quarter. Kyle Marzeoti punched in the two point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

After another defensive stop for the Rams, Marzeoti quickly added to the lead taking the Rams first play from scrimmage 77 yards for a touchdown that made the lead 16-0 after Aalerud ran in the two point conversion with 5:04 left in the half. Marzeoti appeared to be stopped after about a three or four yard gain, but he broke tackles and then raced past the Hornet secondary to paydirt.

Marzeoti ran for 96 yards on just five carries on the night, and he has run for 491 yards through four games this season, averaging 6.5 yards per carry for the season.

In a classic example of how statistics can lie, the Rams did not pick up their first first down of the game until early in the second quarter, at which time they already held a 24-0 lead. The sequence following Marzeoti's touchdown run was a big reason why the stat box may not have reflected the Rams complete domination.

The Hornets took over on the eight yard line on the possession following the touchdown thanks to mishandling the kick-off, and on their first play of the possession several members of the Rams defense took down quarterback Paul Martyn in the end zone for a safety and an 18-0 lead.

The Rams were stopped on their next possession, but a good punt by Tom Mullan pinned the Hornets at their 11 yard line and one play later Brandon McCarthy picked off a pass and returned it to the Manchester one yard line, from where Marzeoti burst through the middle of the line for his second touchdown of the game and a 24-0 lead with 1:26 left in the first quarter.

With the benefit of just one offensive play, the Rams had extended their lead by eight points.

The offense got a chance to get going on the Rams next possession and they took full advantage, marching 55 yards on five plays for another score, capping the drive with a four yard run by Wilmington resident Tom Warford with 6:38 left in the half. The key play of the drive was a 24 yard run by Aalerud which gave the Rams a first and goal at the four. The first of two extra point kicks on the night for Aaron Stanton made the score 31-0. Aalerud hand another big run on the Rams next possession, a 34 yard scamper down to the Hornet one yard line.

From there, sophomore quarterback Joe Gore of Wilmington snuck in for the touchdown and a 38-0 lead.

While the offense was getting it going, the defense never let up, allowing 12 yards of total offense in the first half, including (-6) on the ground. Given those numbers, the entire Rams defense was obviously dominating, but standing out were defensive end pat Fullerton, linebacker Joe Galvin, nose guard Sal Monteneri of Tewksbury, linebacker Chris Borden of Tewksbury and defensive tackle Rich Doane.

Shawsheen coach Al Costabile brought in his second offense to start the second half, and the Ram reserves picked up right where the starters left off. On the first play of the half David Albano took a sweep right and raced down the sideline 68 yards for his first touchdown of the season and a 44-0 lead for the Rams.

Manchester did get on the board later in the half, as the substitutions continued for the Rams. A touchdown pass by Martyn as well as a pair of touchdown runs by Hornet running backs accounted for the final margin of victory for the Rams.

"It was great to get back on the winning track," Costabile said. "Our special teams played very well this week compared to last week and we played very well in all facets of the game."

Girls Soccer team ties the knot

Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech girls soccer team played two of the most exciting 1-1 ties you will ever want to see in soccer this past week, with one of the ties feeling more like a win and the other feeling more like a loss.

Last Friday afternoon at Minuteman the Lady Rams earned their 1-1 deadlock when freshman Stephanie Warnick of Wilmington scored with 30 seconds left in the game, giving Shawsheen what appeared to be a crucial point in the CAC standings.

On Monday the Lady Rams also earned a tie, but this had a much different feel to it. Shawsheen and league leading Greater Lowell played to a 0-0 deadlock for 77 minutes before the Lady Rams junior captain Kayla O'Leary scored to give them a 1-0 lead. But just when it appeared Shawsheen was going to get a key road victory and possibly vault back into contention for the league title, Greater Lowell struck back with a goal by league leading scorer Sarah Norkiewicz just one minute later on a direct kick.

It was the lady Rams second 1-1 tie of the season with Greater Lowell, and as happy as coach Jack Viveiros is to see his team be able to go toe to toe with the best the CAC has to offer, he has been even more frustrated by their inability to get a win against the Gryphons.

"Just like last time we outshot them, but we hit the bar, or shot it over the net. I don't know how we missed," Viveiros said. "The only goals they have scored against us this year have come on a corner kick, two direct kicks and fluke goal that was good enough to give them a 2-1 win the first time we played."

The defense for the Lady Rams has been outstanding not only against Greater Lowell, but against all opponents as of late, as they have not allowed more than three goals in any game this season.

A great deal of the credit for that of course goes to sophomore goalie Kim Stockton of Wilmington, who had 13 saves against Greater Lowell. But a big chunk of the credit also goes to defenders like freshman Kaitlin Gallagher. In the Greater Lowell matches, Gallagher is assigned to defend Norkiewicz, and has done a great job, limiting the star to one goal per game, far below her average.

"She frustrates her. She does a great job on her," Viveiros said. "In many ways Kaitlin was the best player on the field today."

Against Minuteman, the Lady Rams were the ones who were frustrated by some great defense as Minuteman stifled the Shawsheen offense until Warnick was able to come through late in the game. Gallagher picked up the assist on the goal, as it came off of her corner kick. Warnick's play as a freshman continues to impress Viveiros.

"No question, she is doing a great job," Viveiros said. "She still needs a little more time to adjust to the varsity level, but she is already doing very well as just a freshman."

As the Lady Ram head down the home stretch of their season they hold a 6-3-3 record, which would appear to put them in good position for the state tournament, but with some tough games still on the horizon, including a non-league matchup with Blackstone-Millville, Viveiros is taking nothing for granted.

"We have some work to do," Viveiros said. "We would also like to qualify for the vocational tournament, but there are a lot of good teams still in contention."

JV Volleyball team fall in two tough matches

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Cats had a tough week, dropping both their matches to Hamilton-Wenham and North Andover.

"Mandy Church and Taylor Kindred played well the Hamilton-Wenham game offensively by drilling their serves over," said Coach Tracy Kassin.

In the North Andover game, Kassin says, "Katelyn McFeeters played a great game with great serves and hits."

Kassin points out that Varsity coach Mark Staffier and herself are working on finding a setter to replace Megan Godding after graduation day. "The JV team is currently training five setters, Angela Maglione, Kayla Godding, Erin Copeland, Mandy Church and Allison Yee. "(Mark) Staffier and I hope to start training at least one of the setters to play with varsity."

The Lady Cats will have three games next week and hope to turnaround their season.

far. Bruce thinks that Farnsworth is very close to the Varsity level. Bruce talks highly about Farnsworth, saying that he is "big, strong, and intelligent and he is very competitive on the field."

"I am pleasantly surprised by the freshman class," said Bruce. "They are an extremely intelligent group. There are a handful that were National Junior Honor Society students in eighth grade. You can do so much more with an intelligent athlete. They work hard and pick things up quickly."

"They still need to learn to put an opponent away when they have the chance. That comes with age and experience. When they start finishing they are going to be tough to deal with. As usual, my goal is for the young players to improve game to game and to compete for a varsity position in the near future."

Freshmen Girls Soccer

The Lady Cats are 4-0 so far. They recently defeated Hamilton-Wenham 3-0. Janelle Semino had two goals, and Liz Chin had the third.

"We played well," said coach Nicole Ciaramaglia. "It was the second time playing them, we beat them 6-0 the first time. Overall, the game was okay. Devin Murphy played well on defense. Erin Conway played well in goal."

Ciaramaglia goes on to comment on Steph Wood and Briana Brown, who played well offensively and defensively.

Also, Julie Gorman had a good game as well.

After games against Billerica and Masconomet were cancelled, the Lady Cats beat North Andover 1-0. Liz Chin scored the lone goal of the game.

"They were unbelievable. North Andover is extremely fast and physical, and I was really impressed with our stamina and how we stepped it up," said Ciaramaglia. "North Andover is a very good soccer program, and this was a good win for the girls."

The Wildcats tied the Newburyport Clippers 6-6, on Monday in a hard-fought battle. The game started with a Tom Barry interception, his third of the year.

On the next defensive drive, cornerback Kevin Carter layed the lumber on the Clippers quarterback with a devastating hit that sidelined him for the rest of the game. Evan Borsetti also had a tremendous hit on a punt. However, the offense couldn't find the end zone and it was 0-0 at the half.

The Clippers scored on a very long pass play late in the second half, but missed the two-point conversion. This opened the door for the Wilmington offense, which marched down the field and scored on a pass play from Kyle Moon to Phil Minghella. The game ended in a 6-6 tie.

Another 400 yard night for football team

Letter to the Sports Editor

Football team says thank you

Dear Jamie:

The entire Wilmington High School football team would like to thank physical therapist Jim Leonardo for helping the team this past Friday. With trainer Bill Martin unable to make Friday's game, Jim came to us at the last minute and came through doing a terrific job helping many players who needed assistance.

Thanks again Jim.

Sincerely, Bob Almeida and the entire Wildcat football team connected with Greg Stewart down the right sidelines for the second extensive TD, this one going 57 yards in the air making it 14-0.

After Herra intercepted his sixth pass of the season, he scored on a 57-yard scamper which started on the right side of the defense before shifting to the other side of the field with a nice block by Stewart, who is certainly the most improved player on the team.

Murphy would catch his second TD of the game, this one from 13 yards out and Zack Mayo added a 10-yard run to open the third quarter for the team's final score of the night.

Newburyport did score its lone touchdown with 5 minutes to go in the third quarter.

Besides Herra, Murphy caught four passes for 123 yards, and Stewart had three receptions for 89 yards.

Defensively, Almeida feels the team still has some work to do.

"I thought we did a good job stopping their inside run," he said. "They way they threw the ball and did the option they did a nice job. They have some weapons and I don't think we played as well defensively as the score indicated. They did some things they wanted to do. I think scoring on some of those big plays, maybe changed up how they wanted to play defense."

Wilmington returns home this Friday night to host the North Reading Hornets beginning at 7:00 pm.

yards with three touchdowns, and the aforementioned 62 rushing yards and a score.

For the season, he has completed 29-of-46 passes for 525 yards and 8 TD passes, while rushing the ball 23 times for 175 yards and two scores.

Oh yeah, he also has picked off six interceptions from his free safety position. All of this accomplished in just four games.

"He's the best player around and he showed it again," said Wildcat coach Bob Almeida. "He was hot. We could have thrown the ball more and we probably should've have early on, but once we got a sizeable lead we stopped throwing."

In the Wildcats first play from scrimmage on its second offensive series, Herra threw a perfect bomb about 30 yards in the air perfectly into the arms of his favorite receiver Sean Murphy, who caught the ball in stride and cruised to the end zone for an 86-yard reception to open the game's scoring.

"That puts a lot of pressure on you (because he's so wide open like that) and you don't want to over throw," said Herra. "I thought I was going to over-throw him."

Newburyport gained some momentum on the ensuing drive marching down to the Cats 34. On an option pitch that went for 21 yards down to the 13 yard line, Herra nailed running back Patrick Sheehan forcing the ball to come loose and teammate Stephen Downs to pounce on it.

Six plays later, Herra went back to the air, tossing a 57-yard TD pass down the right sidelines to junior Greg Stewart, who has emerged as a fantastic wide out.

"I kind of underthrew that one and if it was a spiral it wouldn't have got to him," said Herra.

Three scrimmage plays later, Herra intercepted a Newburyport pass. Two plays later, he played razzle-dazzle with the entire Clippers defense taking a keeper play to his right, before completely changing direction cutting across the length of the field and outlasting a defender into the end zone for a 57-yard TD run making it 21-0.

Of course he wasn't done yet.

In probably his most impressive drive of the night, Herra completed 5-of-6 passes for 65 yards including his second strike to Murphy coming on a third-and-seven from the 13, throwing across his body to a sliding receiver making it 28-0 at the halftime break.

"The running game wasn't there as much but the passing game was," he said. "Our (offensive) line did a great job blocking. I didn't have anyone in my face the entire game."

"We were going to stick to the game plan and run the ball but they stopped the run pretty good so we went to the passing game. The receivers got open. They make it easy because they get open."

Wilmington Pee Wee II's win pair of close games

The Wilmington PeeWee II's scored two more victories over the weekend.

On Saturday, they pulled out a 4 to 1 win over a tough Lexington/Bedford team. Both teams were a little sluggish to start the game until the Lex/Bed score midway through the first period. This seem to wake up the Cats a little, as they responded within a minute with a goal by Nick Pino with an assist to Drew Cummings. Chris Piscatelli put the team ahead for good with a goal early in the second period with assists to Trevor Foley and Nick Pino.

Drew Cummings added to the lead with an assist to Mike Ciampa. Nick Dirienzo finished off the scoring with assists to Chris Newton and Drew Cummings. Frankie Cerbone and Brendan Munro were solid on defense.

The second game of the weekend ended with a 4 to 0 whitewashing of North Reading. The Cats were again flat out of the gate and finally woke up midway through the second period. Chris Newton scored a pretty goal with assists to Nick Pino and Tyler McInnes to put the team ahead 1 to 0 at the eight minute mark of the second period.

After a few teeth rattling hits to the opposition by Scott Layton, the team woke up with three unanswered goals in the third period. Drew Cummings scored two goals within five seconds to put the game out of reach. Brendan Munro assisted on both with Scott Layton assisting on the last one. Nick Dirienzo finished the scoring again with assists going to Mark Contrado and Chris Piscatelli. Nick Luise recorded his third shutout of the season and played solidly in both games.

Jackie Mulrenan missed both games with an injury, but cheered his team on and assisted the coaching staff on the bench. Us coaches in the stands know that they can use all the help they can get.

Record numbers at Monday's boys and girls cross country meet

12th overall with a personal best time of 17:57 which is 33 seconds better than his previous time. After that it was a lot of red and green shirts as Wilmington's next finisher was Tyler Summers who came across at 18:50, which was 1:36 better than his previous time.

Sean McPherson came in a minute better than his previous best while Andrew Marra shattered the clocks besting his time by three minutes.

Bradley said that he owes a lot of gratitude to many people who made Monday's tri-meet happen.

"We definitely set records," said Bradley. "We had 117 boys competing and 80 girls in the races and we've never had that many kids in a race before. We had sticks, we had a police officer directing traffic and Jack Cushing was a Godsend. It was like Franklin Park - we had saw horses, a shoot for the finish line and two tables to check in the runners."

"I really want to thank Jack Cushing and also Mrs. Hitchins and Mrs. Russo for helping out."

Last Wednesday the boys fell to North Andover. Miele would have been in the mix for third or fourth place overall but took a wrong turn in the course, which put him after the front pack.

As for the girls, freshman Natalie Russo was third overall in the tri-meet finishing behind two Masco runners - who broke course records - with a time of 20:56. Ivy Co was Wilmington's next finisher coming in 36th overall at 25:14 which was 2:36 better than her previous best time.

Against North Andover, Russo was second overall.

Wilmington is now off until October 12th against Hamilton-Wenham.

"Our schedule will be a lot lighter."

Under 10-4 Girls get off to Rocket fast start

Saturday brought a perfect day to the soccer pitch as the GU10-4 Wilmington girls went up against a tough Reading team that pushed the play the entire game.

Off to a fast start the Wildcats would strike at the one minute mark of the first half with a blistering shot off the foot of

Christina D'Ambrosio that was redirected by Emily Bamberg into the Reading net. A constant pressure was maintained by Olivia Dellorusso and Lauren Amazeen from the attack position while Kerry Ryan and Heather Benson repelled the Reading attacks in the backer slot. Reading would not let up and the half ended with the Wildcat girls holding a 1-0 lead.

The second half saw more of the same hotly contested action as the Reading girls were not about to give up a goal without some outstanding play by the GU10-4 girls. With the Reading team showing signs of tiring the Wildcats would strike at 10:17 of the second half on a cross from Adrianna Kippenberger to Sydnee Russo that was one-timed into the net. Emily Bamberg and Katherine McKenna would provide outstanding support in the backer positions only allowing two shots on the Wilmington goal.

Micheline Brown provided an impenetrable wall from the attack position turning back several Reading runs before they left the Wilmington offensive zone.

Wilmington would strike for three more goals before the games end leaving the score 5-0 in favor of the Wildcat girls.

Girls Under 14-5 team takes on Burlington

Burlington started out with some good scoring chances due to good position play and passing. First half keeper stonewall Kelly Duffy made some big saves early. On offense left forward Fiona Gately was making a nice run up the left side, but collided with a Burlington defender before she could make the cross. She got a pretty good banged up elbow from that.

On the right side Heather Kealos made a nice pass back to Samantha Reed whose shot was grabbed by the keeper. Meanwhile back on the left side Lori Fletcher and Kaitlyn McGuire were teaming up with good passes as well.

Burlington put the first goal in, but playing from behind is nothing this team hasn't been able to handle. Wilmington picked up the pressure and left forward Jenny Garrard sent a nice pass to center forward Kristen Keller to the left of Burlington's goal. Kristen blasted a shot into the far side of the twine to put Wilmington

Heather Kealos and Alyssa Fiorentino combined for some superb passing at midfield in tight quarters that almost sent Alyssa in alone. As a matter of fact Samantha Reed was going in on a breakaway down the right sideline when the first half whistle blew.

Burlington put the pressure on in the second half and Wilmington's defense was up for the task. Elizabeth Jaescke was huge at sweeper being a force in the middle. At right defense Kelley Flaherty was her stellar self. Kelly stepped around and in front of a Burlington forward as she tried to beat Kelly to the net. Kelly next found herself on the ground with a banged up wrist.

Burlington's best chance came on a corner, but Meaghan Sousa was right there to cover up the hard shot. Leaking of corners Kristina Lumino almost had a goal off of one or her tremendous corner kicks. The ball grazed off of a Burlington defender and the keeper was just able to get her hands on it short side.

Courtney See and Chelsey Westerberg controlling the middle of the field and feeding the ball outside. The ball was continuously in Burlington's end. Kristina took a bouncing ball in traffic around the eighteen, shielded it, and drove it off the bounce over the keeper's head for the go ahead goal. A tremendous shot.

Wilmington was still hungry. Haley Robarge was superb on the right side dribbling in the tightest of spaces. Haley took an excellent pass from Kelly Duffy, dribbled toward the net and blasted a shot far side that clanged off the post. Not long after, Samantha took a pass from Lauren Cole, who seemed to be all over the field, and sent a nice pass up to streaking Lori Fletcher. Lori was pushed off the ball right at the 18 but there was no call.

Girls Under 12A soccer team scores three and wins

The winning ways for the GU12A travel soccer team continued on Saturday as the girls faced a strong team from Medford.

Once again, Wilmington came out strong and was on the scoreboard within five minutes. Jennifer Stewart sent a solid blast into the opposite corner of the goal to start things off. Fifteen minutes later, Casey Browne fired a rocket from outside the goal box, leaving the Medford keeper stunned. Wilmington was playing their best game of the season so far.

Great passing sequences between Caitlyn McDonough, Meaghan Stinson, and Cristina Wilson were amazing to watch. Although Wilmington was keeping the ball on their offensive half of the field, Medford was primed to take advantage of that one break away opportunity. That happen with only minutes left in the half, as a Medford forward raced upfield and sent a blast towards our goal that was impossible to stop.

In the second half, Michael Stone came out on fire and widened our lead again. Stinson received the ball in midfield, crossed into Emily Crannell who knocked it down, as Stone barreled through to finish it off. The game picked up a bit in intensity, but Melanie Folk, Valerie Belding and Robin Hollenbeck helped to control the ball for the Wildcats.

Goal-keeper Sarah Laiz was tested a few more times this half, but did a great job on defense. With only minutes left in the match, Medford once again scored with another hard shot into the corner of the goal. The locals held together well and maintained the lead until the end.

Final score: Wilmington - 3 and Medford - 2

Under 10-B Boys soccer team battles hard against Melrose

This past weekend took the Wilmington Boys U10-B Soccer team to Melrose. As soon as the game began, the Melrose team took its first shot at the Wilmington net and Adam Coccoluto who was playing goalie made one of many great saves throughout the first half.

Alex Neville showed his defensive ability and defended the net and passed the ball to Austin O'Neal who was playing forward. Austin's speed and display of ball control helped him weaved around players on the opposing team and made sure the ball stayed on the opposite side passing it to Jimmy Davey who made a great shot but it was stopped by the Melrose goalie.

Ten minutes into the game, the first goal was scored by Christopher Michelangelo on an assist by Alex Neville. With the first goal, the Melrose team came in at full force but Alexander Pizette who was an unstoppable force managed to regain the ball several times from the Melrose team. Five minutes later, Jimmy Davey stole the ball away from the Melrose player and took a couple of steps over the half way line and fired an unbelievable shot over the players and goal keeper's head for Wilmington's second goal.

Jared Walsh took the ball away from Melrose, passed it to Christopher Michelangelo who passed it to Jon-Luke Dee who scored the third goal for Wilmington and ended the half. Second half started out with Jared Walsh tending net. Melrose team came on strong trying to score but Jared Walsh made many great saves.

The defensive minded Vinny Poli was moved up to play forward and he didn't disappoint the crowd with a great display

With a few minutes left in the game, Melrose got their first and only goal, the shot went right over the goalie's head and no way to stop it. The game ended with Wilmington 3, Melrose 1.

On Sunday, October 2, 2005, Wilmington would play their second game in as many days at Shawsheen against the undefeated Winchester team. The teams were similar in skill set and you knew this one could turn out to be a good one to watch.

Adam Coccoluto started out in net and the defensive duo of Vinny Poli and Alexander Pizette had their hands full in trying to stop Winchester's bigger forwards. Jared Walsh, Jon-LukeDee and Patrick Walsh were tasked to score against a likewise solid Winchester defense. Seventeen minutes into the fast paced up and down action, Austin O'Neal picked up the ball at midfield on a great pass from Jimmy Davey. Austin O'Neal threaded a great pass through two Winchester defenders to Christopher Michelangelo who collected the ball and chipped a shot high above the goalie to put Wilmington on the scoreboard.

Not satisfied with going into the half with a one goal lead Wilmington players continued to pressure the Winchester team, hitting both posts once. The half ended with the score at 1-0.

The second half saw a change in goalies with Alex Neville in net. Adam Coccoluto moved to his normal defensive position, sharing time with the other defenders Vinny Poli and Alexander Pizette, they would stop Winchester's build up in midfield giving forwards Patrick Walsh and Jon-Luke Dee great passes. Jared Walsh gave a lesson on playing the forward wing position taking many balls wide and then sending them in for great opportunities for his teammates Austin O'Neal and Patrick Walsh. Jimmy Davey playing center forward sprayed his passes to both sides of the field causing the Winchester defense to spread out.

The entire team seemed to be hitting on all cylinders and the passing skills displayed from the defensive line onto forwards was something to watch from the sidelines. The ball rarely passed into the Wilmington's defensive half and when it did the team was quick to regain control and go back on the offensive. The build up started with the defenders making great outlet passes from their end and then stepping up and supporting the forwards as they continued to put pressure on the Winchester team.

Wilmington created many scoring opportunities with their continued pressure from Alex Neville found Christopher Michelangelo on a great pass but was unable to score. Tallying a second goal would give themselves a little breathing room but in the end a single goal made the difference. It was the best game the Wilmington boys have played this year showing great skills and outstanding teamwork. They played great against a great team and the boys should be proud. This time Wilmington came out on top 1-0.

Pee Wee C's make state proud

Wilmington Pee Wee C team got off to a great start yesterday morning in their two games. In the first game they were short handed against MRYHA team from N.H. They called up Nolan Gaffey who helped them out in a big way!

The Wildcats scored first with Dan Keane and J.B. Thompson setting up Cam Babine in front of the net. Joey Russell scored assisted by a nice pass from Andrew Camillieri. Nolan Gaffey scored from Cam Babine. MRYHA scored two goals but Joey Russell answered back with his second goal assisted by Andrew Camillieri and then Andrew scored himself from Conor Ryan. Nolan Gaffey ended the Wildcats scoring in the first period making it 6-2.

Cam Babine had the only goal of the second period assisted by Jeffery Gossen and Bobby Carlin. Conor Ryan scored to open up the third period assisted by Russell and Camillieri. Gaffey completed his hat trick assisted by Ryan and Babine.

Joey Russell got his hat trick with a great pass from Ryan Kennedy. Final score 10-4 Wildcats winning!!

The Wildcats traveled back to Wilmington to face off with Burlington. Down one more player for the second game, they picked up Alex Harrington along with Nolan Gaffey to help out. There would only be one side of the score sheet in this one. Ryan Kennedy scored first for the Wildcats assisted by Cam Babine. J.B. Thompson scored from Gaffey. Conor Ryan took a nice pass from Alex Harrington for a score. J.B. scored again from Bobby Carlin.

J.B. Then scored his hat trick goal assisted by Harrington. Conor Ryan then added his second assisted by Babine, and his third with a nice move behind the net to complete his Hat trick. Bobby Carlin moved up from his defense spot to play center and scored back to back assisted by Thompson to end the scoring for Wilmington!

Sunrise Assisted Living of Burlington Is Now Open and Welcoming Residents

For more than 23 years, Sunrise has graciously served seniors who need assistance with daily living. Today, Sunrise continues to provide the best levels of care in home-like, residential surroundings. Now, the doors to our newest Massachusetts community are open here in Burlington.

A computer generated phone call you should definitely listen to...

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

After a long day at work or a night out on the town, the last thing most people want to come home to is a computer generated message left on their voice mail or answering machine. For some stay at homes, it might be scary enough to answer the phone and hear a computer generated message coming in from the police or fire departments and the question might arise as to why they are calling your home.

However, a better understanding of the situation shows that it is not a case of "Big Brother" watching, but more like Big Brother caring. Many towns are now enlisting the aid of public alert systems to make sure the residents and business people in a community know of emergency situations, road closures or in some cases school closings as soon as it is humanly, or so to speak, mechanically possible.

Wakefield was one of the first communities in the state to have a public alert system. They subscribed to the CAN (Community Alert System), which operates out of a facility in Albany, New York.

Fire Chief David Parr said, "The vast majority of response to the system has been positive. It is important that we be careful and concise on the messages we send out. We have learned from our mistakes and we adapted."

The response has also been positive in Reading which just went on line with the Reverse 911 system in July of this year. Burlington, Winchester (not installed yet) and Tewksbury also use the R911 system.

Reverse 911 and R911 are copyrighted names for the products sold or leased by Sigma Communications, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of Sigma Micro Corporation. Community Alert Network (CAN) is another company used in this area for the purpose of automatically alerting the public of emergencies or delays through a computerized telephone calling system.

Tewksbury Dispatch Supervisor Ted Sullivan noted that his community has been using the R911 system for about six years. It has been become a very helpful tool in the community especially to notify certain areas of town about road closings due to construction.

"We use it quite a bit," Sullivan said, "especially with all the construction in town."

He added, "A lot of people get really annoyed when they don't get a R911 call (and they find out their neighbors did)."

This addresses one of the weaknesses in the public alert systems, which rely on Verizon phone book listings to work properly. If a number is unlisted, the computers, whether installed locally or used from a remote location, cannot call them.

However, the databases in both systems can be updated and anyone with an unlisted number is advised to contact their local police department with the necessary information. This information will then be placed into the secure network, and the unlisted phone number will be called in cases demanding quick notification of a possible emergency situation.

Reading Police Chief James Cormier said, "In light of everything going on in the world, I think people are seeking more information."

Because Tewksbury has an older system, Sullivan notes that it would take about three days to notify the whole community of an emergency and every phone line in the police department would be tied up. However, the system does work very well when only certain parts of the community have to be notified.

This was the case, during an incident, about two years ago, when a local bank was robbed, and the suspect escaped on foot. Residents and schools in the area of the bank robbery were called on the R911 system to notify them as to why police were combing the area and to ask them to keep an eye out for the suspect.

Because the earlier R911 systems required so many dedicated phone lines, is one of the reasons Chief Parr decided to go with the CAN system. That only requires an authorized person (in Wakefield that would be the Police Chief, Fire Chief, Town Manager, or Department of Public Works Director) to make a phone call to the CAN office.

Once the proper identification is made, the message is delivered by CAN personnel through their computers. This allows the community to cut down on training costs, because local dispatchers or officers in charge do not need to operate any equipment.

Sigma provides training on an on-going basis for those communities that buy and install their computer systems. The initial training consists of a full day for authorizing personnel and a half day for dispatchers operating the system.

None of the communities using a public alert system have had need to initiate the service for a hazardous material or terrorist related incident. However, Wakefield has used it to notify residents of a bomb scare at the high school and about the receipt of threatening letters at the school.

According to Parr, the need for such a system was first realized about one year before it was installed, when a problem occurred at the Town's pumping station, and water could not be drawn from Crystal Lake, a reserve reservoir. The situation occurred on a Friday night, and there was no way to notify businesses or residents of the problem, except to send police and fire personnel out to go door to door with notices.

Finance Committee Member Quirino "Bud" Ianazzo, who worked for the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency (MEMA) suggested that the town look into a public alert system. The research was done and the funding approved the following year.

Water problems of a different kind in Winchester also led that community to purchasing the system. Over the past three or four years the town has experienced two 100 year floods (flood conditions that are only expected to occur once every 100 years). In both cases the power outages that occurred in the low-lying downtown area prevented the sump pumps from being activated and the police could not notify the business owners in a timely fashion.

As a result Police Chief Joseph Perritano approached the Chamber of Commerce to develop a better communications method. That is when the decision was made to go with the Sigma system.

"We just received the equipment last week," Chief Perritano said. "We hope to have it up and running by the end of the year."

He noted that his personnel will have to undergo training before the equipment is installed. Once that is done, Sigma personnel will commence a public education program through the media so that residents and business owners in Winchester understand the system.

"If this system is half of what it is purported to be, we will be that far ahead," Perritano said.

According to the CAN website (www.can-intl.com), "CAN was started in 1981 in upstate New York as the "Missing Child Network", the world's first telephonic emergency notification service. In a short time, it became obvious such a service was needed in other emergency situations.

"The scope of the service soon broadened to where it is now used in a wide variety of emergency situations. It has become the "all hazards" warning company.

"CAN now provides services to more than 600 communities and facilities in the U.S. and Canada. In addition, more than 3000 corporations and businesses co-sponsor CAN services. They pay for the basic services and turn the administration and use of CAN over to local authorities."

With the CAN system, communities do not have any equipment purchase or maintenance or personnel training cost. There is a start-up fee and an annual subscription rate.

Sigma has held patents on their Reverse 911/R911 systems since as early as 1996. Communities can purchase or lease the equipment and the company provides all training and installation.

The company material states, "Our customers purchase a server and our software to make notifications. Because the calls are local, they avoid the bottlenecks that plague the national telephone network."

"Also, the calls are free (because they are local). Keep in mind that over time, REVERSE 911® will be less expensive. Why? Because we have found that most notification sessions are very focused in nature. Rarely do our customers call tens of thousands of people."

"Because of this fact, the majority of the system's use will be free (no per-call charges as with an off-site system)."

Both systems can allow for street by street, neighborhood by neighborhood section or community wide calling. They can also allow for special call groups such as only to police or fire personnel depending on the emergency.

For more information on the Reverse 911 system, go to their website at: www.r911.com.

"A HISTORY OF VIOLENCE" THRILLING?

MOVIE:
"A HISTORY OF VIOLENCE"
GRADE: ***

Director David Cronenberg's latest is an examination of the capacity to commit violence that is an inherent quality in all of us, and the ways some of us are able to either suppress, or embrace, that quality.

Viggo Mortensen, who inflicted much violence upon enemies in 'The Lord of the Rings' trilogy as Aragorn, plays Tom Stall, a quiet man in a quiet town in Indiana who runs the local diner. One night around closing time two very nasty characters walk in and attempt to rob the facility at gunpoint, at which time Stall leaps over the counter, disarms one of the attackers and kills them both without missing a shot, all the while displaying the type of ability and marksmanship normally displayed by special forces operatives, not short order cooks.

He is hailed as a hero by the local media, the story receives national coverage, and then three bad men from Philadelphia come calling, led by a disfigured Ed Harris (who is having a lot of fun with the role), who claim that Stall is really Joey Cusack, a notorious mob hit man from Philly who has been on the run for years. The rest of the story centers around this "Is he or isn't he?" plotline.

Maria Bello plays Stall's wife Edie, who begins to question who her husband really is after more and more evidence is placed before her.

Cronenberg doesn't play up the violence in a gratuitous way, but just lays it all out there for the viewer to take in, and decide for themselves whether they are horrified or thrilled by it. He examines violence on many levels, whether caused by bullets from a gun on one's physical body or when one's actions harm another's psyche.

Mortensen and Bello are very good, and a brief appearance by William Hurt near the end of the film is worth seeing.

MOVIE:
"FLIGHTPLAN"
GRADE: **

In "Flightplan," Jodie Foster's a desperate mother scrambling to find out what happened to the daughter everyone else tells her no longer exists.

The movie is very similar to a film that starred Julianne Moore last year called "The Forgotten", which was also about a mother looking for a child that everyone claims never existed. The difference is that Moore was safe on the ground, while Foster's hovering at 37,000 feet aboard a trans-Atlantic flight.

The basic story is intriguing, and with Foster and super-sonic producer Brian Grazer on board, there was a real

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them? A.M. Lamp shade, Lamp, Chair, Fingers, Eyes, Paper, Julia.

Passengers and crew, including Christensen and Kate Beahan as flight attendants, say they never saw the little girl, and the flight manifest shows Kylie was flying alone. The crew ultimately determines they have a delusional lunatic on their hands, and we're off to the races.

The film keeps up the suspense for the first two-thirds, but the ending is far too improbable and unsatisfying given an actor of Foster's caliber.

Cage stars as Yuri Orlov (even that's not the character's real name, we learn), a man who is not what he seems to almost everyone he encounters. The Epitome of "Friendship"

Everyone has a friend they call their best friend, but what do you call your best friend who saves your life and at the same time gives you a second chance at a healthy life.

It began in 1959. I graduated eighth grade at a private school, applied to a private high school close to my home only to find enrollment closed. I was placed on a waiting list thus I began my first experience at a public junior high school, across the street from our home. Sounds convenient however, I didn't adjust well to the public school concept and soon my academic achievement was in jeopardy. I was popular with my peers, playing on the football team and improving my social skills. My dad was not impressed; he searched for another private school where discipline and direction would be included in the curriculum. He found a small private school with an opening. I took the required entrance exam, passed the test and was accepted. It was November 1959, I was fourteen years old, and discovered Cambridge Massachusetts. That's where I was to attend high school. Four cities from where I lived in Malden. The principal introduced me to another student with a long commute (Thomas McCartney) who lived in the next town to Malden called Medford. The principal's idea for us was to travel together once I got to Medford from Malden. Finally I was in a new high school, playing basketball, making new friends, doing well academically, and Tom and I were fast becoming friends.

CLOSE FRIENDS - (l-r) Tom McCarthy, Dr Nina Rubin and Joey Cardello at Mass General Hospital on September 29, 2005 at the first annual night of celebration dedicated to kidney donors. The event was held one year, three weeks and six days since Cardello's transplant.

One month later December 1959 my dad received a call from the private school in my home town, saying they now had an opening if I wish to attend their school. Confused and bewildered, I said to my dad, although it would be convenient, I really didn't want to change schools again, because I was happy and doing well in Cambridge. His response was one of surprise, nevertheless he said o.k. do the best you can. Four years later I graduated and went on to college.

November 1999 I was diagnosed with chronic kidney failure. I was devastated and overwhelmed with fear. I felt perfectly healthy without any symptoms. The doctors explained there are no symptoms at this time; there is no medicine or cure to prevent com-

About the Towns by Phyllis Nissen

NOW'S THE TIME TO EXPLORE OPTIONS

Time to make the trip (Tewksbury)

"Few people do what they love," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"Even fewer are those who find a way to get paid for it. Bill Wilson of Donna's Donuts in Tewksbury is the exception. He has his own business doing what he feels he was born to do.

"In the quiet of an empty store, Wilson works his craft.

"He arrives at the shop at 6:00 p.m., and works until the early hours of the morning, sometimes bumping into his employees who arrive to work at 3:30 a.m. in order to have coffee ready for the early morning truckers who stop in before 4:00.

"For some, the greatest pleasure of owning a business is delegating the work out. For Wilson, hand cutting each individual donut that ends up on a tray is his greatest pleasure.

"Wilson describes baking as instant gratification for effort.

"In twenty minutes you have a result," Wilson says. "If it's not a good one, you can fix it."

"Wilson's father, also Bill, has been in donuts his whole life. He owned 'Mr. Muffin' in Salisbury, where Bill Jr. worked for nearly ten years. During that time, he explored what he thought might be his career, architectural design. He even drew up plans for his Dad's store, but soon realized that there was only one thing that would make him happy.

"I went back to my first love, making donuts," Wilson said. "I didn't like sitting at a desk for eight hours."

"So instead, now he stands at his bench, the same bench he has stood at for fifteen years. This is where he rolls out the dough, and cuts each donut, one by one.

"Fifteen years ago, Wilson and his father came across the location that is theirs today. At the time, it was called 'Mr. Donut.' They renamed it 'Baker's Dozen,' but that name was patented, so again it had to be changed.

"For the last ten years, it has been Donna's Donuts, named for Wilson's late sister, Donna. She was co-owner, but tragically passed away two years ago. It's been a tough couple of years for the family, but the business carries her memory.

"It feels good," Wilson says of what has become a family business. Wilson's father is 'the glue that holds it all together,' says Wilson. He manages, as well as takes care of the stock - making sure they get the best price and top-quality ingredients to make their products.

"Mark Donahue of Billerica, Wilson's cousin's husband, holds the title of 'the Muffin Man.' Mark's wife, Robin, works at Donna's too, coming in and helping out when needed. Aunt Pat and cousin Darrell's wife Abby, get in on the family business as well.

"Wilson refers to his finisher, Bruce Robinson, as a 'baker's helper.' Also having a passion for the business, Robinson came from 'Lori-Ann's,' a donut bakery in the Chelsea/Charlestown area...."

Boomers hit the road (Burlington)

"As unemployment trended down from 5.2 percent to 5.0 percent last quarter and the stock market stayed strong, career mobility increased slightly, according to the second quarter 2005 and managing director of Lee Hecht Harrison's Burlington office.

"The index, based on a nationwide telephone survey of 1,013 adult Americans, commissioned by global career services company Lee Hecht Harrison, showed 14.9 percent of working Americans changed their employment status between April and June compared to 12.9 percent from January to March of this year.

"The good news, Gilson says, is that American workers still didn't switch employ-

by Phyllis Nissen

SCHOOLS DISCOVER NEW WORLD

Pilot program takes off (Winchester)

"The School Committee unanimously approved a pilot program for new elementary report cards for the 2005-2006 school year," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"For the past year new report cards were used in a pilot program for the Ambrose fifth grade, Lincoln third grade, Lynch fourth grade, Muraco first grade and Vinson-Owen second grade. That experience plus feedback from parents and teachers generated new report cards for kindergarten through second grades and third through fifth grades."

"Now that the school committee has approved the pilot program, new report cards will be distributed to all grade levels in each elementary school."

"Committees in charge of the pilot programs presented their findings to the School Committee at its meeting. The committees found that the current report cards were too vague, did not give the teacher enough room to comment on a student and did not give parents enough information about their child's progress."

"The report card committee for kindergarten through second grades created more categories for grading and adopted a scoring system based on levels one through four. Level one means the student is beginning to develop to the grade-level standard and level four means the student is extending the grade-level standard.

"Accompanying the report cards each term will be a rubric explaining what each level means in each category. One sheet will be given out for each subject - reading, writing, math, history and science."

"The committee said that the different categories are based on the Massachusetts framework for teaching and are a big improvement to the system."

"The rubric that explains the different levels in each category will help parents understand the range of progress students are expected to make."

"This system will also help to keep teachers on track about what they are teaching their students...."

Teachers sign on (Reading)

"Teachers and cafeteria workers started the school Notes to S-13

"Employers need to have contingency plans to make sure that critical skill sets and institutional memory don't leave with those retirees...."

Spot training in Stoneham

"In light of drownings and scares at local lakes, rivers and ponds, the Stoneham Fire Department surface team performed exercises at Spot Pond recently," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"The team takes a few days out of every summer to trek the gear and equipment up to Stoneham's biggest body of water and simulate a struggling swimmer in need of assistance."

"In a perfect world, the Fire Department wouldn't need such exercises as Spot Pond isn't open for swimmers and overheated Stonehamites seeking a respite from the summer heat, but Stoneham Fire Department officials know it's far from a perfect world."

"There shouldn't be kids out there swimming around unsupervised, but we have to go out there just about every year," said Stoneham Fire Capt. Ed Regan.

"The team, which will use every Stoneham Fire Company unit to help perform the water rescue practice sessions, opted for one of the hottest days of the year several weeks back to get on

SPORTS SHORTS

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA
Where does the word 'hockey' come from? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•READING'S JARED KAZANOVICZ, a freshman Offensive Lineman for Trinity College's football team saw significant playing time in Trinity's first game of the season. Trinity beat Bates 47-0. This was Trinity's 23 win in a row, Trinity tied Williams for the New England Division III winning streak record and will break that record with a win Saturday. The streak is also the longest in NCAA the water.

"You know there's a lot of kids out there swimming where they're not supposed, and this is one of those things where we need to get out there and face rescue procedure," said Stoneham Fire Capt. Ed Regan. "This is something that we hope we never have to do, but you always need to be prepared just in case."

The exercise consisted of a firefighter 'Dummy' in a wet suit moving off the shore and pretending to be a swimmer struggling in the water. The surface team takes a rowboat off the shore or - if close enough - simply releases the slack and lets the rescue sled float out toward the victim with a Stoneham Fire Department official manning the red sled....

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About the Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867 or to notestowns@comcast.net.

Division III and the second-longest in all of college football (Southern California - 25 wins in a row).

•The Bentley College Women's Cross Country team placed third overall in the 74-runner field at the Bryant University Invitational.
READING'S CAROLINE SHEEDY, a freshman runner who is also Bentley's number two runner, recorded a time of 21:28.4 in her first-ever cross country race. She placed 14th overall. In high school she was a soccer player.

•ELMS COLLEGE JUNIOR GOALKEEPER COLLEEN STRUNK OF STONEHAM was solid once again between the pipes for the Blazers, as she turned aside 16 shots during a 6-1 loss to Maine-Farmington.

•The Reading Memorial High School Athletic Hall of Fame is pleased to announce its Class of 2005 Inductees. They are:

- Andrea Comeau
- Beth Moxcey
- David Nugent
- David Pizzotti
- Charles Heineck
- Chuck Ross
- Michael LaPierre
- Peter Moscardello
- Ken Feit
- 1996 girls spring track team
- 1992 field hockey team.

•BURLINGTON'S MIKE DEBYE recently returned an interception a school-record 100 yards for the Stonehill football team in a 28-21 win over Assumption.

•READING'S KRISTIN JOHNSON, a senior goalkeeper for the Bentley College field hockey team, was in net stopped five shots as her team was upset by Franklin Pierce College, 3-2, in a Northeast-10 Conference game at Sodexo Field.

•After a promising first season under new head coach Emily Verbridge last year, the 2005 Saint Michael's College volleyball team could turn some heads in the Northeast-10 Conference this season.

"I am really looking forward to the 2005 season," said Verbridge. "This should be the strongest team Saint Michael's volleyball has seen in some time. With three solid senior leaders carrying the team and a talented, large incoming class, I am confident that we will improve upon the past few seasons."

Six first-years join the Purple Knights this season, and all will have important roles, according to Verbridge.

Expected to be a fixture on the court is READING'S STEPHANIE BAMBURY, who is the second-tallest player on the squad at 5-10.

"Stephanie will step in as our second middle hitter, along with Katie, and will see lots of playing time," said Verbridge.

•WAKEFIELD'S CELIA MERULLO is a member of the 2005 UMass-Lowell women's soccer team, and scored a goal in a recent 6-0 win over Post University.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The word 'hockey' originates from the french word "hoquet", meaning "bent stick".

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday, or fax information at 781-942-0884.

ORCHID SALE AT LYMAN ESTATE

The Lyman Estate Greenhouse will be offering hundreds of orchid plants on sale. The sale will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday November 4, 5 and 6 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Come enjoy the antique greenhouses, built by wealthy Boston merchant Theodore Lyman. Inhale the wonderful scents of the wide variety of orchids on display and for sale. There will be both hard to find varieties as well as easily grown varieties. The expert staff will help choose the appropriate plants for specific conditions.

Fascination with orchids began in the late 1700s and early 1800s. During that time explorers were bringing back thousands of orchids to England. After perfecting growing techniques orchids were sent to the United States.

The Lyman Estate Greenhouses are located at 185 Lyman Street in Waltham. To reach the Estate take Route 128,

Hitching Post hosts artist for cancer fund

READING - Local artist Linda Larrick has expanded her selection of cancer awareness jewelry to include necklaces, anklets and a smaller version of her original bracelet.

This awareness jewelry is fashioned from sterling silver beads and swarovski crystals. Each piece, with the exception of the anklets and necklaces, sports Larrick's signature two-crystal drop and an awareness ribbon charm.

Customers can order any piece in a single color to represent a particular form of cancer, or crafted in an array of colored crystals representing all forms of cancer.

Larrick's experimentation with a variety of mediums over the years has led to her discovery of her talent for jewelry design, and a way to support cancer patients in the process.

A few years ago, Larrick began volunteering at the North Shore Cancer Center in Peabody. There, she noticed that the center's employees were wearing awareness ribbons in a variety of colors to represent the form of cancer that their patients were battling.

Pairing her community work with her passion for jewelry design, Larrick decided to design cancer awareness bracelets that make an elegant statement.

Notably, Larrick donates a portion of her proceeds to the North Shore Cancer Center to support the Wellness Program, which helps cancer patients to look and feel their best during their cancer treatments.

The Hitching Post matches Larrick's donations to further benefit those individuals who are fighting cancer.

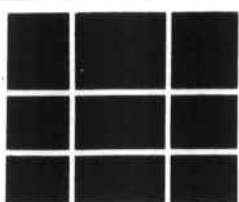

In addition to Larrick's cancer awareness line of jewelry, she also creates a Heart Disease awareness bracelet. Crafted from ruby red Swarovski crystals and sterling silver beads, this piece sports a heart-shaped clasp as well as the two-crystal drop and a heart awareness charm.

Linda Larrick's awareness jewelry makes a meaningful gift for any woman who has been touched by cancer or heart disease. The cancer awareness line, as well as the other jewelry pieces designed by Larrick, can be found at The Hitching Post, located at 190 Haven Street in Reading.

Truck rolls October 8th

Cleaning supplies & canned goods drive for Louisiana a big success

From the Girl Scout Troop at Stoneham's Central school, to the Bingo crowd at the Wakefield Elks, to local citizens who wanted to help in some small way.

The T STOP Showroom in Greenwood Plaza in Wakefield, looks more like a local hardware store, than an embroidery and Screen Printing Company. Three weeks ago, Stoneham residents Nancy and Rod Faulkner began gathering local support to adopt the Town of Pearl River, Louisiana and the surrounding area. All items collected will help hard working families, whose lives were traumatized.

The effort was prompted after Rods brother Randy drove down south a week after Hurricane Katrina, to help out in any way he could. When his journey began, he had no final destination in mind. Randy landed at a Church/Relief center in Pearl River Louisiana, where they were feeding up to 1000 people a day.

After not hearing from his brother for 10 days, he finally got a call, and this is where the local efforts began.

Now less than 3 weeks into the mission, the truck is ready to roll. One last plea is being made before the truck Pulls Out.

The current collection, will go thru Saturday, October 8th. Items may be left at the T Stop 983 Main St Wakefield, between 9 and 5 thru Friday, or Saturday, the truck is being loaded between 8am and 1pm at the same address. Items will be gladly picked up, by calling 781 665 0000

Current needs are HEARTY CANNED GOODS ie. Beef Stew, Tuna, Spam. CLEANING SUPPLIES; i.e. mops, sponges, bleach, Pinesol, masks, rubber gloves etc, as well as charcoal, small grilles, cots, tents, and sleeping bags.

The community of Pearl River and The Faulkner Family Thank You

Stevenson Show now at Linden Gallery

The Linden Gallery & Frame, U.S. Route 1 in the Rowley Plaza is honored to present an exciting new exhibition and sale of fine art photography, ECLECTICA Visions from David Stevenson. This collection highlights 20 years of Stevenson's best works in black & white and color photography and beautifully handcrafted digital images.

Fascinated as a student and intent as a hobbyist, Stevenson left a promising engineering career 20 years ago to fully embrace professional photography.

He quickly built a successful studio in Danvers, to become internationally recognized as a master printmaker and photographer. With a keen eye and technical acuity, David has further explored painting, sculpture and digital filmmaking.

Gallery hours: Tues-Sat 9-5, Thurs until 7 pm. For more info call 978-948-2105 or log on to www.lindengallery.com.

Transplant

plete kidney failure. It was inevitable; one day I would require dialysis treatments (artificial kidney machine) to stay alive. That day began in November 2003, when I became very ill. My kidneys were failing at a rapid rate (end stage renal failure) and in January 2004 I required a fistula operation on my left arm (a fistula is how you're connected to the kidney machine). In May 2004 my health had declined to where dialysis was necessary, however, I declined treatments (for personal reasons) until June 2004.

My dialysis treatments were Monday, Wednesday and Friday 4-5 hours per treatment. Average life expectancy is 9 years without complications. During the time I was on dialysis we lost two young patients, due to complications. It's not the ideal situation but it sustains life when your kidneys fail. The best option is kidney transplantation, either from a relative, a cadaver, or any matching donor. The support I received from friends and family was outstanding. Fifteen people offered to be donors. To me they are heroes.

My emotional response was one of uncontrollable pride, I cried as each person offered to donate a kidney. One who donates a part of their body to save someone's life is a very special person. Organ donation is not automatic. Donors are subjected to a series of rigorous tests and many are eliminated after being interviewed and also after preliminary medical testing. Of the many candidates who offered three were potential matches. One was eliminated in the final analysis for a slight medical reason; another due to the timing of personal commitments and one was a perfect match.

The person who was a perfect match was none other than the best man at my wedding, godfather to my son, my best friend of 45 years. His name is Thomas McCartney. Who would have thought, 45 years ago I would meet a childhood friend, in a school I should have left for convenience sake, but didn't, and he would become my kidney donor.

On September 2, 2004 I received a kidney transplant from my friend Tom McCartney at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Tom has now returned to work and doing just fine. I am still recuperating but no longer need dialysis treatments to stay alive. The doctors tell me to expect a full recovery and live a long and happy healthy life.

The day of the operation our families rallied and supported us as they had all along and experienced the anxieties one might expect before a transplant operation. They laughed at our hospital clothing, and joked about our story telling tales of our childhood. I'm sure they were trying to help us ease the tensions and fears that filled the room. I must say this operation would not have been possible without the full support and love of our families.

Before they took Tom and me down to the operating room we hugged and wished each other well. I was overwhelmed with emotion and began to cry. I asked! Tom, how can I ever thank you? He said....you just did.

I wanted to share my story of friendship and point out the essence of a true friend and how I feel about Tom. He saved my life and made me whole again.

What do you call someone like Tom McCartney? I'm just your friend Tom said.

After reading this you know I don't refer to Tom as "just my friend". He's the best. The epitome of "FRIENDSHIP"... Tom McCartney.

Restoring a Classic

1966 GTO Convertible

Returns to the Road

By DICK HAGGERTY

PART TWO OF THREE

The place is a catalog "toy store" for Pontiac GTO owners. It is called Ames Performance Automotive and is located within one and one half hour of here in Marlboro, New Hampshire (just beyond Peterborough in northwest New Hampshire).

They have everything you can imagine for a GTO. I would guess that if you ordered one of everything they had in the catalog it would cost you over $100,000. Believe me, we weren't going anywhere near that number.

Enter Jino Storey. I could blame this whole fantasy on Jino but I won't. You see he once had his own shop where he rebuilt, repaired and designed all kinds of autos. I met him because he is the fiancée of a co-worker.

He gave the GTO a once over and said it was in a good, solid state. He offered to head up the project.

"We'll strip the paint, remove all the 'Bondo' (Plastic filler), get rid of the rot, go through the interior" his list went on and on.

We ordered a bunch of things from Ames Automotive. New seats covers, new dashboard, all the GTO insignias, window cranks, even body by Fisher step-ons for when you get in the car. The cost ran up near $2,000. Here we go thought I. We've only just begun. YIKES!

The rationalization for it all was that this car will appreciate in value while the new whatever in your driveway will depreciate. At least that has been the way it has gone since I bought it in 1985.

Plus Jino was very cost conscious and repaired or adapted many parts that would have pushed the cost up.

Jino kept the nervous Nelly away while all this was going on. "Trust me" he would say. I had no choice.

As I understand it Jino and his team removed all the metal trim and bumpers. Actually lifted the entire body of the GTO up so they could work on it better. They even removed the engine and prepared to paint it 'Pontiac blue'.

There were more things to order at Ames. Metal patches for the rear fenders to name one. They actually removed any 'filler' material that had been used in other fix-ups.

The fellow at Ames even offered to buy the hub caps at a price of $200 a piece. By this time Jino was on a first name basis with him. We had all four of them, originals but I said 'No'. "We are going to keep her original" said I. Which by the way, all the 'numbers' on the car checked out as original. I'm told that is important.

What began as a project of weeks turned into a project of months. I just had to have faith.

As a matter of fact summer turned into fall and into winter and finally spring before it was nearing completion.

In stripping we found out the original color was an aqua blue, not the white it was when I bought her. Some thought was given to what color we should use but not much. I wanted it the same as the one I had in 1966 - Maroon.

Along with Jino we traipsed off to automotive stores to try and find an auto color match book that dated back almost 40 years. It wasn't easy but finally we found a match at a shop in Wakefield and the paint was ordered.

Like any project there are difficulties. This one's major involved the autobody fellow who did a lot of the work. Jino felt he had negotiated one price, the fellow said it was more.

I finally ended up in the middle of it all and consented to pay the higher number in order to get the project moving. Of course I had to consider lots of things but most importantly was that the nice weather was coming fast.

Through all this I also caused a stir in the neighborhood. Bunches of people wanted to know where the car I had left in my driveway for several months went and was it coming back.

As a matter of fact during the 15 years she was in the garage when the doors were open a number of people would stop and come to the door and were interested in buying it. The answer was always an emphatic no.

As the 'coming out' day drew near Jino was always fiddling with this and twixing that. Like any older car you will never get everything perfect.

For example the switch to put the convertible up and down worked intermittently. A visit to the bible, Ames version, found you could order a replacement for $80.

The tail pipes were also in need of replacement, a major project, so we bought a set of covers for $20 that would do for now. The funds were getting desperately low.

Through it all Jino was conscious of how limited the monies were and where ever possible he would purchase goods from local auto stores, even junk dealers rather than go to the more expensive 'toy store'.

It was now May and I was anxious.

Jino added a nice touch with racing stripes down the sides with a fancy design at the front of each fender. A nice touch that added much.

She was ready, if not completely finished.

Jino turned her over in late May and I was on the road.

When I parked her out in front of the Reading office of the Daily Times Chronicle, almost immediately a call came in from a friend in Rotary, local builder Rich Lombardo.

"Did I see what I thought I saw in front of your office? You sure you don't need a new kitchen? It looks great".

Rich was an owner of a GTO back in the late 60's and still has fond memories. He was jealous a little but I told him there would be plenty of time for him to ride in it.

The one change in the original was that we took the old AM radio out, and of course saved it, and replaced it with a state of the art CD player. Somewhere along the way I had managed to purchase lots of CD's that had the songs from the 50's 60's and 70's.

He also installed four new speakers so you could enjoy the sounds. Remember, back then, I know I'm dating myself, there were few if any car stereo systems. Just AM radios, not even AM FM.

She ran great and just in time for the nice weather. I was pleased but I was in for a surprise when I took her to the summer cottage in Wolfeboro, New Hampshire.

We'll talk about that next week when the final part of this series wraps things up.

THERE WAS LOTS OF WORK TO BE DONE once the body shop took charge of this restoration project - both inside and outside, including a complete stripping of the multiple levels of paint. The body shop removed the hood and the trunk and sanded and removed all the rusty and rotted metal. This all took place before work could begin on the interior. You talk about an extreme makeover, this 'classic' was going the full route.

Does your assisted living apartment come with some unwanted features?

At Longwood Place At Reading, protecting our residents' privacy and dignity is of the utmost importance.

That's why you'll never have to share a room in our community. Unlike many other residences, all our apartments and studios are private.

Yet, they're less expensive than some shared units at other facilities. But even though we charge less, we offer so many more services and amenities, like:

- Kitchenette in every apartment and studio
- Weekly housekeeping
- Calendar of activities
- Three meals served daily
- 24/7 personalized support services from an experienced, caring staff

And it's all included in the monthly fee. We offer so much more, so why clown around with anyone else. Call Jill Murray today for a personal tour at 781-944-9200.

North Reading

Nestled among tall pines in a private, three-acre setting is one of North Reading's finest, most luxurious homes.

Stone columns grace the entry to this professionally landscaped property and 5,000 square foot brick-front home that offers three finished levels of living space, three full and three half baths, four fireplaces, a three-car garage, and oak floors, as well as 9' ceilings, throughout the home.

Upon entering this magnificent home, visitors are greeted by a striking two-story foyer; bridal staircase; 13' x 13' library with crown molding and chair rail; and a 16' x 31' dining room featuring dentil molding, oak flooring with Brazilian cherry wood inlay, two chandeliers and six lighted wall sconces.

The first floor also features a 21' x 24' eat-in gourmet kitchen with French country (lacquer-finished maple) cabinetry; granite counters; top-of-line stainless steel appliances; built-in, sub-zero refrigerator; gas stove; two electric wall ovens; and a cooking alcove. Atrium doors in the kitchen and dining room lead to an impressive 12' x 29' multi-level, mahogany rail deck that overlooks a beautifully landscaped yard and sparkling free-style gunite pool and hot tub.

Adjacent to the kitchen is a 20' x 21' family room with a 35' vaulted ceiling, a wood-burning fireplace made of New Hampshire granite, and a staircase leading to the second floor. This room also leads to a second 21' x 20' family room, complete with a corner gas fireplace, half bath, and a separate 10' x 9' alcove that has been plumbed for a wet bar.

On the second floor is a dazzling master suite featuring a 13' x 21' master bedroom with a vaulted 20' ceiling, corner gas fireplace, and 16' x 7' walk-in closet. Highlighting the gleaming 13' x 21' master bath are an electric, radiant-heated ceramic tile floor; granite counters; 7' x 6' double-headed steam shower with glass enclosure and ceramic tile bench; and two full-sized "his" and "her" vanities.

Also included on the second floor are three additional large bedrooms, including a guest bedroom that has a private, full bath with granite counters and ceramic tile flooring, and a third full bath with two sinks, a granite counter and a ceramic tile floor.

In the lower level of this stunning home is a spectacular 36' x 45' game room that has a 9' foot ceiling, brick-faced wood-burning fireplace, ceramic tile floor, exercise area, half bath, and an atrium door leading to a stone-paver patio and walkway that surrounds the pool and hot tub.

This fine property is currently listed at $1,295,000, and is being marketed by Holly Sampler to S-10

Unique hexagonal Oakland has a sunny disposition

By Associated Designs

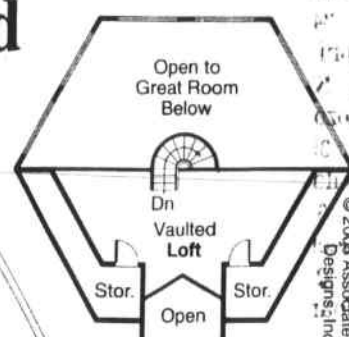

No matter where you build the Oakland, it's impossible to look at the tile roof, stucco walls and generously windowed exterior without thinking of sunshine. High arched windows on every exterior wall of this contemporary Mediterranean-style home add drama, inside and out, while capturing light from every angle.

In the front, an arched arbor separates the driveway from the lushly planted entry courtyard. Stately columns flank the lofty gabled entryway. Viewed from the rear, the Oakland is equally attractive. The exterior of the hexagonal great room, graced by high-arched multi-paned windows on three sides, has a carousel feel to it. A patio adds to the effect, wrapping around the entire back expanse.

The spacious country kitchen is open to the vaulted great room, with only an eating bar between. Amenities include generous counter and cupboard space, a step-in pantry, built-in range and oven, and an oven and microwave combination.

At the juncture of kitchen and great room, an open stairwell spirals up to a wide vaulted loft that is open to the great room at the rear and the entryway in front. Side walls are six feet tall, but the loft is much higher at the center. To convert this space to a cozy library retreat, simply bring in some bookshelves and a couple of easy chairs. Bedrooms are located at opposite ends of the Oakland. The sumptuous master suite features a huge walk-in closet, oversized spa tub, skylight, shower, private water closet and twin vanities. The other two bedrooms share another large bathroom that also has two vanities.

Utilities are convenient to the bedrooms and the garage.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Specify the Oakland 10-037 and include a return address. A catalog with over 400 home plans is $15. For more information, call (800) 634-0123 or visit www.associateddesigns.com.

VNA of Middlesex East offers an Alzheimer's Caregiver Program free of charge to help family members caring for loved ones with Alzheimer's disease improve their life together.

The program helps caregivers design a safe home environment for the Alzheimer's patient and teaches them how to maximize the patient's skills for daily living. Care and consultation is provided by an occupational therapist, physical therapist, nurse and social worker. They also teach caregivers how to care for themselves and maintain connections with the outside world.

The program offers respite care provided by a trained core of volunteers that allow caregivers time away for appointments, shopping, social activities or just time alone. Telephone support is also available.

Individuals who believe the program could help their current home situation and would like to learn more about this free service should call Donna Silva, Alzheimer's Caregiver Program Coordinator at VNA of Middlesex East 781-224-3399, ext. 202.

Parade of Homes for Easter Seals

NORTH READING - On Saturday, October 15, the Easter Seals and Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil will be teaming up once again to host the second annual Parade of Homes.

The money raised from this event, to take place from 12:00 noon through 4:00 p.m., will be donated directly to the Easter Seals - an organization that helps individuals who have disabilities that have resulted from illness, accident or aging.

The Parade of Homes will serve as an opportunity for the public to view an array of styles, sizes and locations and market values throughout the town of North Reading.

The homes that are featured on the Parade of Homes are not currently for sale, but the Century 21 team has asked the homeowners to showcase their homes for this fundraising effort.

"Much like a traditional open house that we conduct while marketing a property, we invite the public to see the interiors of these homes for decorating ideas, kitchen and bath designs, landscaping accomplishments, and a whole of amenities that we envision as features that one might like to take home," explained broker and owner Dave O'Neil.

Century 21 co-owner Joyce Spindler also shared her own thoughts on the event, stating, "We at Century 21 are thrilled to be able to give back to the community."

"Easter Seals helps people who have been disabled by providing services, day care, and in-home companionship to frail elders, summer camp activities to disabled children and comprehensive, up-to-date referrals for disability services to a wide array of agencies and organizations."

Century 21 has been affiliated with the Easter Seals since 1979.

"Locally, Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil has participated in various events including sponsoring several volleyball tournaments, a golf tournament, an overnight stay at Brandeis University while running in a 24-hour relay race and even participating in a bowling marathon," explained O'Neil.

This year, Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil and the Easter Seals are hoping to make the 2005 Parade of Homes their biggest success to date, and they hope to raise even more money for a very worthy cause. In fact, the Century 21 staff is asking their friends and neighbors of North Reading to aide them in their most aggressive campaign to date.

Tickets to the Parade of Homes are currently available for purchase in advance for a price of $15, all of which will benefit The Easter Seals. And please note that you can tour just one of the homes or each and every home on the tour.

On the day of the event, tickets will be available for $21 per person.

Please note that a map of the properties will be made available on the day of the event.

For more information or to purchase tickets, contact any realtor at Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil, located at 247 Main Street (Route 28) in North Reading or call 978-664-2100 or 978-944-2100.

the major political hot spots in the world.

Orlov incorporates the services of his younger brother, played by Jared Leto, until a deal goes bad and one of them ends up flying home in a casket.

Ethan Hawke plays an Interpol agent who pursues Orlov over the course of two decades.

Orlov is a character that keeps telling himself that he isn't involved in the wars he helps sustain, and that the warlords he calls business associates are strictly customers, even when he knows for a fact that the guns he sells will be used to mow down a village of women and children as soon as they are paid for.

Cage is very good, as is Leto as the brother who slowly realizes that something must be done to stop the violence. Moynahan is also good as the wife willing to look away as long as the money keeps coming in, until she is forced to face the fact that her husband is a monster.

The film also examines the culture of gun smuggling, and the part it can sometime play in U.S. foreign policy. The opening sequence, showing a bullet being created, transported overseas, and ending up in the skull of an anonymous African boy is one of the most visually jarring sequences in a film in recent years.

MOVIE:

"THE EXORCISM OF EMILY ROSE"
GRADE: ***

Though the coming attractions would have one believe this is a horror movie, it actually plays as more of a smart legal drama, with elements of horror mixed in throughout.

Based on a true story, the plot revolves around the death of 19-year-old college freshman

Emily Rose, who went off to school and came home in an altered state of mind - a form of epilepsy, if you believe her doctors, or demonic possession, if you believe her family and their parish Catholic priest, Father Moore.

Rose agrees to become the subject of an exorcism, which is caught on tape, and although she survives the event she later dies of malnutrition. Father Moore is arrested and charged with negligent homicide, and the movie centers around his trial.

The film stars Laura Linney as the defense attorney who is a woman of little faith in God, while Campbell Scott is the prosecutor who actively reads the Bible in his spare time and his charged with partially putting the beliefs of the Rose family on trial.

The film smartly realizes it will never create the same scares as 'The Exorcist', the film many will no doubt compare it to. Instead, it shows the creepy events that portray Rose's so-called possession in two lights, with a religious explanation for what is happening alongside a scientific one, and lets the viewer decide which camp they are in.

This is a smart movie in a season lacking much else of substance at the theaters.

Notes From S-4

year with new contracts," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"We are pleased we are able to end the school year with a contract for our teachers," Superintendent Dr. Patrick Schettini said during the summer. "The others should be done by the start of the school year."

"Teachers accepted their three year pact in June, just before the end of the school year. The cafeteria workers contract was recently voted by the School Committee.

"Under the new contracts teachers and cafeteria workers will receive a two percent increase this year and then receive 2.5 percent increases in each of the next two years. By Town regulation, all bargaining units negotiate the health insurance and other benefits under one umbrella contract.

"With the new contract, the starting pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is $37,449. A new teacher with a master's degree will receive $40,194.

"Negotiations with the bargaining units started in December. Schettini reported that the talks went smoothly.

"It was a very, very constructive and respectful negotiation," Schettini said. "There was a lot of understanding of the issues on both sides."

"According to Schettini, in the end both sides took into consideration what was good for the community. More importantly, they took into consideration what was good for the students...."

School Committee gives praise (Woburn)

"The School Committee offered a job well done and best of luck to graduating senior Liz Miller for efforts as the student representative at the school board meetings and keeping members up to date on issues and events at the high school," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"In a final report at the meeting, Miller announced that though the year's Mother-Daughter Banquet and the Senior Trip were canceled due to a lack of interest, the Senior Prom was a huge success and drew more than expected students.

"Miller also noted that changes made to the second graduation ceremony at the Joyce Middle School, a result of the football field being torn up to make way for the new high school, made a significant improvement.

"It was much better than the year before," Miller said of the rearrangement of the staging area. "Where the parents (were seated) was good."

"The School Committee and Miller talked about getting a student representative on board sooner this fall. The seat went vacant at School Committee meetings this past fall for more than two months awaiting the results of the election of senior class officers.

"This year, the student representative of this year's junior class will hold down the seat until the senior class elections are held later in the fall...."

School Committee wins praise (Wakefield)

"The Wakefield School Committee's meeting started out with heartfelt words of thanks from Chairman William Chetwynd who said, 'I want to say something that is rarely said,'" notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"I want to thank each and every one of you for your dedicated service on the School Committee...."

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867 or to notestowns@comcast.net. We welcome student writing.

Set the Stage for Better Rates!

Our experienced Home Mortgage Consultants will do a quick analysis to see if you would benefit from:

- An interest rate refinance that would lower monthly payments
- A term reduction that would pay off your home more quickly and save thousands in interest payments
- A refinance from an ARM or balloon to a safe, predictable fixed-rate
- A cash-out refinance to put your home's equity at your disposal for debt consolidation, home improvements, etc.

We offer personal service, quick decisions, a broad menu of mortgage options and little or no documentation to those who qualify.
